Farewell at Church on War Plant Site

Photographs Taken as Officers and Members Hold Good-bye Meeting.

A photograph of the Likens Chapel and the corps of officers and teachers serving the church and Sunday school are shown herewith. The teachers and officers were photographed last Friday night when a large crowd of members and friends held a farewell service in the church.

The Likens church, built in 1916 and dedicated in 1917, replaced a building which was razed by fire after serving the community since 1871. The church is of the Methodist denomination. The property recently was taken over for the Scioto Ordnance Plant. Army officials said tentative plans call for leaving the church building intact for possible use in connection with the plant.

The small boy shown in the top picture is Howard Seckel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seckel. In the front row, left to right, are Miss Eula Jean Gulliford, Youth Fellowship pianist; Miss Glendora Gulliford, Sunday school secretary; Mrs. William Gulliford, pianist for the church and Sunday school; Mrs. Delvin Foos, treasurer of the Fellowship; Mrs. Bryan Windom, teacher of primary children; Mrs. Chester Fulton, teacher of young people; Mrs. George Bird, teacher of young married people; Mrs. Clarence Gulliford, teacher of intermediate young people; Mrs. Walter Showers, president of the Ladies' Aid society, and Miss Edith Yenney, secretary of the Aid society.

In the second row, left to right, are Harold Windom, Sunday school chorister; William Gulliford, assistant Sunday school superintendent; Howard Windom, church chorister; Delvin Foos, Fellowship secretary; Albert Seckel, Sunday school superintendent; Mrs. Albert Seckel, Fellowship president; Rev. Donald Lyon, pastor; Mrs. Lyon, and Miss Mary Hines, assistant Sunday school chorister.

Mr. Moore succeeds John McSweeney of Wooster, who resigned. He will serve without compensation.

Since July Mr. Moore has been chairman of the Ohio defense savings committee, organized to stimulate sales of stamps and bonds to finance the nation's war effort.

CIGARET TAX UP

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 3 — Revenue from Ohio's cigaret tax totaled $798,397 in March, as compared with $760,153 in the same month a year ago W. D. Bailey, chief of the state cigaret tax division attributed the gain partly to more women smoking.

U. S. Winning Battle of Production, Group Reports After Secret Hearing

House Committee's Findings Differ from Senate Statement Saying Plane Plant Production Lines Lag.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3—From ringside seats as privileged observers to the greatest industrial effort in history, four members of congress voiced belief today that the United States is winning the production battle.

They based that belief upon guarded information obtained in closed house military and naval committe sessions from Navy Secretary Knox, War Production Chief Donald Nelson, Undersecretary of War Patterson, and high-ranking army and navy officials.

Sharing the opinion were Representatives Thomason, Democrat of Texas, Clason, Republican of Massachusetts, Sutphin, Democrat of New Jersey, and Mott, Republican of Oregon, all committeemen. Interviewed, they spoke in generalities.

"Such information as has come to us indicated that both industry and labor are keeping abreast of the tremendous demands of the President's program," declared Clason.

Coming Along Fine

It's coming along fine," said Thomason, adding that he was basing that statement upon information supplied by Nelson and Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen, in charge of army production. "All this discussion and agitation about war production has proved a fine thing in stimulating effort. But everybody must go to work. We need little more energy, a little more unity."

Mott said those called before the naval committee reported that production was increasing rapidly, and added that Nelson himself had indicated in his testimony that the President's goals for planes, tanks, ships and guns would be met.

Sutphin, too, agreed that "tremendous" progress had been made.

Their opinions presented a broad picture in cheerful contrast to a report by the senate defense investigating committee, which declared yesterday that because of poor planning, some warplane assembly lines were operating below top speed, due to delays in furnishing vital parts.

Back Rep. Cannon

In general, the four backed the statement of Chairman Cannon, Democrat of Missouri, of the appropriations committe who recently told the house:

"We are not only moving along to schedule, but we are raising our sights. * * * we are increasing the magnitude of our program, and every day we are making material progress toward its realization."

They agreed that lack of shipping to meet the greatly expanded demands was the greatest shortcoming at present. But, as Sutphin pointed out, the shipbuilding program "already is far beyond our fondest hopes and expectations, with ships coming down the ways months ahead of schedule."

Clason said present bottlenecks "presumably are shipping aluminum, magnesium and rubber. The war production board, however, is bending all its efforts toward overcoming those difficulties."

Easter Egg Hunt Set To Start at 9:30 Tomorrow

Saturday morning at 9:30 a gun shot will ring through McKinley park, signaling opening of the annual Kiwanis club Easter egg hunt.

Sixty "lucky eggs" among the 5,000 hidden throughout the park will entitle the finders to either a chick, a duckling or a bunny.

Upon arrival boys and girls will be assigned to one of three groups, those up to 6, those from 7 to 9 and those from 10 to 12. It has been decided not to open the hunt to children over 12, W. M. Preston, general chairman, said today.

Free transportation to the park on Marion Rapid Transit, Inc., buses will start at 8:30. Children must be at regular bus stops to be picked up, officials said. Return fare from the park will be the regular five-cent charge for children.

City and county traffic officials will be on duty to handle the crowds. The driveway through the park will be blocked to traffic at the State Route 23 and South Prospect street entrances.

If it rains Saturday morning the hunt will be postponed until 4 p. m. Monday, Mr. Preston announced this afternoon. Station WMRN will start broadcasting at 7 a. m. Saturday as to whether the hunt will be staged as scheduled.

BATAAN TROOPS ON GUARD FOR NEW ATTACK

U. S. Forces Mop Up Jap Units That Broke Through Lines Yesterday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3 — American front line troops stood alert today against a third Japanese Bataan assault in two days, ready again to meet superior numbers and fire-power with determined counter-attacks.

U. S. forces were reported officially to be mopping up Japanese units which broke through the main defense line in two heavy attacks yesterday, only to be pocketed by an American counter-drive.

The war department said "a considerable number of Japanese unit" were in the pocket, indicating that whole platoons, armed with grenade-throwers and machine-guns, faced the encircling American troops.

Platoons Well Armed

Each Japanese infantry platoon of 42 men has three rifle sections and a grenade-throwing section. The rifle sections each have seven riflemen and a light machine-gun. The grenade-thrower, or tekidanto, sections have three grenade dischargers capable of throwing powerful 50 mm. projectiles from 65 to 250 yards.

In addition, the Japanese riflemen themselves carry both hand grenades and "stick grenades." The stick grenades are small iron pots of explosive on five-inch wooden handles.

The Japanese toss them for considerable distances. The stick grenades depend mainly on heavy charges of lyddite for their effect rather than on the fragmentation as in American and British types. Each grenade has two ounces of lyddite, giving it about half the explosive power of a stick of dynamite.

Expected To Dig In

Officers familiar with Japanese tactics said the encircled troops doubtless would dig in during the night in individual foxholes. Individual Japanese may be able to hold on in their foxholes which they call go's, for several days. In a sack on his back each man carries one day's emergency rations and five days' supply of rice.

It was considered unlikely that the Japanese would try to aid their encircled units on Bataan by landing parachute troops. Reports on the first large-scale Japanese parachute operation, in the Dutch East Indies, show it was far from successful.

In this attack, Feb. 14, the Japanese dropped 700 men from 100 planes around Palembang, the oil-refining center in South Sumatra. Armed with light mortars and machine-guns, the parachutists landed in three groups. Their mission was to capture the flying field and oil refineries. The mission failed.

War Department Report

The war department late yesterday gave this account of the newest fighting on Bataan:

Before daylight Thursday the Japanese made a heavy assault on the center of the U. S. line. They advanced beyond outposts from which U. S. troops had been withdrawn, but came under heavy American artillery fire. Amer-

2 RETIRED MAJORS BATTLE OVER GUARD

One Killed and Other Wounded in Fray.

By The Associated Press

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., April 3—Two retired majors climaxed a prolonged feud over respective merits of the state and home guards in a deadly gun duel last night.

Maj. William H. Wenstrom, 45, was killed on the porch of his home—shot twice over the heart.

Maj. Buell Hammett, 42, shot in the hip, was given a chance to live after a blood transfusion.

Mrs. Evelyn Wenstrom, the slain officer's widow, was wounded seriously. A bullet tore through her jaw and her palate, emerged just below her eye.

The officers, socially prominent, organized a home guard unit here. They disagreed on policy and Major Wenstrom stepped out. Wenstrom repeatedly criticized the unit; advocated affiliation with the state guard. He wrote letters to the Santa Barbara newspapers.

Last night, after a particularly violent criticism had appeared under Wenstrom's name, Ham-

8-Year Old Marion Boy Killed in Auto Accident

Donald DeVore Fatally Injured When at Play in Front of Thew Ave. Home.

Donald Wayne DeVore, 8, of 247 Thew avenue was killed last night when he ran into the path of a car driven by Miss Jane Clark, 22, of 276 Thew avenue.

The accident occurred in front of the DeVore home.

Although he was rushed from the scene to the Clark automobile to the city hospital, he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Coroner R. I. Miller said death was caused by a fracture of the skull, a broken neck and other possible injuries. The body was taken to Schaffner-Shaw funeral home.

Police said the boy was struck by Miss Clark's car as it was driven at a speed of 15 to 18 miles an hour.

The boy, who was playing a running game, was being chased by Gloria Caldwell, 3, of 240 Cheney avenue. He darted from behind a car parked on the east side of the street and into the path of the automobile driven by Miss Clark, who was on her way to the hospital to visit Mrs. DeVore, also a patient there.

Miss Clark said she veered the car to the left, but the boy was caught in front of the center of the car. He was thrown by the left front fender, and the left side of the car passed over the boy's body.

Miss Clark reported that she had recommended to Police Chief Clarence Hoffman that no charges be placed against her. Hoffman said he would follow the recommendation.

The boy was born in Fort Wayne, Ind., on Jan. 31, 1934. His father is a native of Tarkio, Mo., and has been the former Miss Dorothy Wolfe was born at Lewistown.

He attended the Epworth Methodist church Sunday school. A two-year-old sister, De Ann, survives with the parents.

The funeral will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m. in the home. Dr. A. M. Isgrigg of Epworth Methodist church will officiate. At 10:30 a. m. the body will be taken to Fort Wayne, Ind., where a prayer service will be conducted at 2 p. m. in the Linden West cemetery chapel. Burial will be made in the Linden West cemetery. Friends may call at the home tonight, after 7:00.

Two enlisted men from the Marion area, one a U. S. navy ensign and the other an aviation cadet, were killed in plane crashes yesterday and Wednesday, their families have been notified.

Ensign Weldon Baird, 26, of Kilbourne in Delaware county, was killed Wednesday when the plane he was piloting crashed into the ocean near Santa Barbara, Calif.

Crestline Cadet Dies in Accident

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, O., April 3 — Aviation Cadet Emerson W. Kaler, 23, son of Willis Kaler of Crestline, was killed last night near Leary, Ga., according to a government telegram received early this morning by his father.

An Associated Press dispatch today from Albany, Ga., stated that Cadet Kaler and Second Lt. Hinton S. McLeod, 26, of Fayetteville, N. C., were killed in a crash of their training plane.

Turner field officers said the two were on a routine training flight. Cause of the crash was undetermined.

The notice received here did not give details of the accident.

The body will be returned to Crestline for funeral service and burial, the family said today.

Cracker Box Yields Lost Diamond Ring

A cracker box held the mystery of a lost diamond ring reported by Charles W. Kramer of 585 Vernon Heights boulevard.

A week ago last Monday Mr. Kramer lost his ring and began advertising on the "lost and found" columns of The Star.

Last night while the family was making out the Easter grocery list, it was found in the cracker box. Mr. Kramer remembered having reached into the box the night he lost the ring. This morning he put the ring in a safe deposit box until he can have it refitted.

Mr. Kramer was mechanical superintendent for The Star prior to his retirement several years ago.

3 KILLED IN CAMP BATTLE

Shooting Follows Clash Between White and Negro Troops at Fort Dix.

By The Associated Press

FORT DIX, N. J., April 3—White and Negro soldiers fought a 15-minute battle on the darkened plains of Fort Dix last night. Three men were shot to death and five others felled in a furious exchange of bullets.

The sudden, bitter outburst ended after Negro and white officers appeared and ordered the embattled white military police and Negro enlisted men to cease firing.

A cordon of military police laid siege to barracks housing Negro troops from which Major Auge Woltike said, a fusillade of shots answered a bullet "fired over the head" of a fleeing Negro soldier.

First Trouble at Camp

The battle, termed by Major Woltike, post public relations officer, the "first manifestation of any ill-feeling among races at the post," flared from a dispute in a nearby amusement center over a "next" on a telephone.

Negro and white soldiers were in the Waldron sports palace, in the community of Pointville on the edge of the post, Major Woltike recounted when a scuffle occurred among soldiers waiting in line to use the phone. The place contains a bar, a lunch counter, amusement and bowling alleys.

WORK ON APPRAISAL OF WAR PLANT SITE

Preparations Made To Name Purchase Negotiators.

The Marion land acquisition office of the army engineers here reported today that rapid progress is being made in the program of acquiring farm land for use as the site of the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

The appraisers have their work between one-third and one-half finished, and preparations were being made today to name a group of negotiators who will follow up the appraisers and actually negotiate with the owners for acquiring the land.

Meanwhile, a group of attorneys are nearing completion of legal descriptions of the property and ownership data. This work is being done by R. C. Moloney, Henry A. Mickley and Edward J. Ruzzo.

Al Winter of Upper Sandusky is chief of the group of appraisers. Another Ohio man, D. M. Langell, is on the appraising staff, and he and two others, Rufus Lisle and Paul Mootz, are both connected with the Federal Land Bank at Louisville, Ky. Lyman Contris of Washington, D. C., was here for 10 days to help with appraising work and may return soon.

John V. Ruth, chief engineer and draftsman, is a member of the land acquisition office staff.

ADVANCE PUTS ENEMY NEARER RICH OIL LAND

Defense Anchor at Prome Is Pierced; Admit Situation Is Grave.

By The Associated Press

Grave new reverses marked the allied defense of Burma today as British headquarters acknowledged that the Japanese had cracked the right wing anchor at Prome, key to Burma's vital oil belt, but the news from the Philippine war was more heartening.

On long-besieged Bataan peninsula, Lieut.-Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's American and Filipino fighters were officially reported mopping up pocketed Japanese units which have today burst through the main line in two heavy assaults.

The war department said "a considerable number" of Japanese got through, only to be trapped by U. S. troops counter-attacked the gap and sealed the gap.

With Japanese invasion threatening from west from Burma, leaders of India's millions still wrangled bitterly over the British proposal to grant India self-rule after the war in return for backing support.

Chiang Sends Message

Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, advocate of war collaboration between China's 400,000,000 and India's 390,000,000 was said to have intervened in the negotiations urging India to accept the British proposals.

Chiang was said to have sent a special messenger to convey his views to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, powerful former president of the All-India Congress party.

In Burma, the situation was critical at both ends of the British-Chinese defense line guarding the Burmese oil fields, a major source of China's gasoline and oil supplies, and the road to Mandalay.

The British acknowledged that they had been forced to retire to the north of Prome, less than 100 miles south of the Yanangyaung oil fields, falling back after night-long fighting in the jungles south of the Irrawaddy river town.

Deny Akyab Landing

However, British headquarters denied reports of a landing by Japanese sea-borne troops at the West Burma port of Akyab, only 100 miles from the Indian frontier, which would have been an even greater setback.

A Chinese spokesman at Chungking said yesterday the Japanese had landed under cover of cruisers and destroyers, but the British declared officially they had "been in direct contact with Akyab this morning" and no landing had been attempted.

Simultaneously, a Vichy broadcast reported that Chinese forces in the east, commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, were retreating farther north from enemy-occupied Toungoo.

The broadcast said Japanese advance guards pursuing the Chinese had pushed almost 15 miles north of Toungoo on the road to Mandalay. A British communique, however, declared the invaders' spearheads had only reached a point south-east of Yedashe, 15 miles north of Toungoo.

On the right flank, around Prome, a British communique said strong Japanese forces captured heights south of the town in an attack from the east of jungle part of the Prome-Rangoon road.

"Our forces moved back to fresh covering positions north of the town early yesterday morning," it said.

Vichy Quotes Tokyo

The Vichy radio, quoting Tokyo, asserted Japanese had made further landings on small islands adjacent to the half-Dutch, half-Portuguese Timor, including Rotti, Leti and Barbar, to "complete the island front in Japanese hands facing Australia."

Prime Minister John Curtin announced that Japanese fliers dropped 35 bombs yesterday in their 11th raid on the north Australian port of Darwin, but caused only slight damage and one minor casualty.

Sir Stafford Cripps, the bearer of an unfavorable received British plan of post-war domination status for India, conferred with Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell at the commander in chief's headquarters in New Delhi.

Spokesmen for India's 43,000,000 "untouchables" were among the latest to express opposition. They were quoted as saying the proposals were sure to place the depressed classes "under an unmitigated system of Hindu Rule."

"Such a catastrophe," New Delhi dispatches added, "will be resisted by all means at our command."

NEW TAX BILL TAKING FORM

House Indicates Many of Morgenthau's Suggestions Will Be Rejected.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3—House ways and means committeemen predicted today that many of Secretary Morgenthau's revenue proposals would be rejected when the committee draws a new $7,610,000,000 tax bill.

"About the only thing the committee seems willing to accept right now is the amount," two members said. Morgenthau had recommended the $7,610,000,000 increase over this year's record breaking revenue law.

Completing exactly one month of hearing on the treasury department's recommendations, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said that closed sessions on the new tax bill probably would begin about April 20. The measure probably will not reach the house before June 1.

Situation at Present

A survey of the committee members indicated that if votes were taken today the administration program would fare as follows:

Morgenthau's recommendation against sales tax: a great majority favors either a manufacturers' or retail sales tax, in order to be able to scale down Morgenthau's request for steep increases in both individual and corporation taxes.

$3,200,000,000 more from individuals: except as a last-ditch source of revenue, such a program would be rejected on the ground that it would double the average individual's tax so closely upon last year's trebling of income taxes.

$3,000,000,000 additional from corporations: much too high, what with combined normal and surtaxes starting at 55 per cent, and excess profit rates ranging up to 75 per cent; rates appear to be almost confiscatory, some members declare.

$1,344,000,000 from new and increased excises: rejected if a sales tax is adopted; otherwise accepted for the most part, but only as a temporary, war measure. Major revenue would come from increases on distilled spirits, a doubling of the present cent and one-half tax on gasoline, and on cigarets.

Compulsory joint individual income tax returns by husband and wife: acceptable as a war measure, with the prospect that it would attract more votes than last year when it was defeated in the house after winning committee indorsement.

State, City Bond Levies

Taxation of state and municipal securities: probably would be rejected because of the effect on outstanding indebtedness and on future security flotations.

Elimination of the present so-called percentage depletion allowance for oil well operators: opposed because it might interfere with maximum production of petroleum.

Withholding income at the source, as a means of collection: opposed on the ground that the average person would prefer to make his own plans to meet his tax payments next March 15.

Rep. Disney (D-Okla.) appeared to voice the sentiment of many committee members when he said yesterday:

"We can not possibly raise $7,000,000,000 (from additional individual and corporate taxes) so we will be compelled to go to a sales tax, much as we dislike to. . . . a sales tax would be a 'war tax' in which the whole population would participate."

He said that a survey made for him showed that 190 of the first 225 house members with whom the question was discussed said they would favor some form of sales tax. The house membership is 435 and a majority would be 218.

A person charged with murder is more likely to be convicted than a person charged with any other crime, the census bureau reports. However, the chances are very good that the conviction will be for something less serious than first-degree murder. In 1940 there were 8,208 homicides in the United States and only 124 legal executions.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Bain occupied the Bain homestead one-half mile south of DeCliff. Mr. Bain spent several years as a teacher in the village school during the winter months in addition to his work as a farmer and stock raiser, and later he was assistant cashier of the Campbell bank in LaRue.

One which he prizes highly is a gift booklet titled "Ninety - nine Precious Promises," which is being distributed throughout the Christian world.

In addition to their daughters, Mrs. Leffler and Mrs. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Bain have six grandchildren. Mrs. Rankin is the wife of Dr. Fred M. Rankin of Akron.

Increase in Tomato Crop Asked in Union Co.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, April 3 — A meeting of the Union county agriculture war board will be held here Saturday in an effort to stimulate interest in tomato growing this season, it was announced Thursday by Walt M. Treese, chairman.

Unless interest in tomato production is increased, Union county will fall far below its quota in this department in the food for defense program, Mr. Treese stated. He estimated that present intentions call for a reduction of about 40 per cent in tomato acreage from last year due to labor conditions. The meeting Saturday is to outline a plan for providing labor for the crop harvest.

Easter Parade To Be Bright, Sales Indicate

By The Associated Press

Ohio is all set for its brightest Easter parade in years.

Purchases of clothing, particularly masculine attire, are as much as 50 per cent ahead of last Easter in some Ohio cities and better than the rush before last Christmas.

The heavy sales volume was attributed, principally to bigger payrolls, uncertainty over future scarcity and priority restrictions, and higher prices.

Toledo, Columbus and Dayton merchants predicted that the customary post-holiday slump would be cushioned this year by the greater prosperity among consumers.

Reporting a sales volume increase of 50 per cent over last year, William H. Gras of the Cleveland Retail Credit Men's company said the change in styles of men's suits to conserve wool apparently had no effect upon business.

CROP REPORTS DROP WHEAT

Prices Depressed to Lowest Point Since Before Pearl Harbor Attack.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 3—Warming spring weather, spreading a green blanket over the U. S. winter wheat acreage, has helped depress wheat to the lowest prices in Chicago's market since before Pearl Harbor.

The crop outlook is unusually bright. Despite a reduced acreage, ordered last fall to keep the nation's wheat bins from overflowing with an unmanageable surplus, a big crop is in sight, if nothing goes wrong.

The sensitive wheat market, laboring under wartime throttling of free international trade but supported by government price props, has reflected this. Even so prices, around $1.25 a bushel for May delivery, are only about 9 cents a bushel below the peak reached late in January, and are 33 cents higher than a year ago. In fact, except for April, 1937 when wheat sold as high as $1.45, in April three years ago it was as low as 67 cents.

With moisture conditions favorable over much of the belt, except in spots, the crop picture is good enough to promise another unwanted surplus in 1942, the sixth in six years. Should this prove to be the case when harvesters find their grain next fall, the United States will have accumulated the largest supply of breadstuffs ever amassed. This would cause no concern especially in wartime, were it not that export outlet is limited now and domestic storage space already is crowded. The trade also faces the threat of broken embargoes on shipments to nominal markets when the crop begins to move.

The late estimates are on the carryover of old wheat on July 1, when the new season begins, may be 620,000,000 bushels or 75 in the largest on record, compared with 385,000,000 in 1941 and the previous record of 374,000,000 in 1933.

Current estimates of the winter wheat crop range from 6 1,000,000 to 648,000,000 bushels, the latter a figure released by trade exporters recently. Should the largest harvest be attained and should a normally anticipated spring wheat crop of 181,000,000 bushels be produced on the smallest acreage since 1919, the total supply in sight for the 1942-43 season would be 1,440,000,000 bushels. Normal annual domestic requirements are less than half of this.

Much of this supply is being held off the market under the government's ever-normal granary program. Stocks of old wheat on farms in 1941 almost 500,000,000 bushels now and it is likely that when the new crop begins coming to market the government may offer loans to cooperating farmers at rates as attractive or higher than present prices.

26 Against the Axis: 26

YUGOSLAVIA — A big Czecho-Slovakia, Yugoslavia also born of World War I, comprises the former Balkan states of Serbia, Slovenia and Slovania, Dalmatia, Croatia, Bosnia, Hercegovina, Montenegro and parts of Carniola, Carinthia and Voivodina. Serbia is the largest component and she herself has been independent only since 1878, having been a vassal of Turkey since 1389. Sixteen million people — Serbs, Croats, Slovenes, Magyars, strong, durable people — were working out their religious, racial and political differences when the Axis invaded their country last year. Young King Peter fled to London to set up a regency-directed government in exile; Serbia was reduced to its pre-1918 proportions; Albania, Italy, Bulgaria sliced themselves pieces of Yugoslavia; Montenegro and Croatia were recreated, and the work of years to build the Slav states into a strong nation was destroyed. Yugoslavia is rich in lead, copper, iron and the more important elements for modern war—manganese, chrome, bauxite for aluminum. As widely known as any Yugoslavian product is the marasca, wild cherry, found in confections and beverages as maraschino cherries. Centuries of warfare and fighting for their little countries against Turkey, Austria-Hungary and each other, trained Yugoslav's Chetniks, fierce, well organized (even to a small but effective air force) guerilla army how to hide in the mountains and strike hidden blows at the Nazi occupation armies while Premier Simovich works in London to get supplies to them.

"THE STRUGGLE." Czecho-Slovakian underground newspaper, carries a prayer for his country by Karel Capek on its front page.

But the rest of the staff of "The Struggle" escaped and the four-page paper is still being published. The Czech lion rampant in a Victory V continues to preach sabotage from "Boj's" masthead as it has for nearly three years.

But They Go On

Gestapo leaders, infuriated by the regularity with which underground newspapermen smuggle their latest copies onto the desks of their oppressors, have been unable to stamp them out in Poland, Yugoslavia, Greece, Norway, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Belgium and Denmark.

Yugoslav patriots last year floated a 20,000,000 dinar bond issue (about $200,000) through advertising campaigns in their underground publications to finance this work. They offered to pay 4 per cent interest after the war. The issue was sold out.

Belgian Paper Revived

"La Libre Belgique" was one of the things Kaiser Wilhelm's soldier had to contend with in Belgium during World War I. The revived Free Belgium newspaper is one of the crosses chafing Hitler's Gestapo in the low countries today. Thirteen editors of this paper were captured and shot during World War I.

Today new editors publish "La Libre Belgique" in six to 12-page tabloids and their 3,000-4,000 press run reaches more than 100,000 patriots, Inter-Allied Information officials estimate.

Five Poles, the entire editorial staff of one small free newspaper, recently were captured, according to German news reports. Gestapo raiders found a powerful shortwave radio set and a small apparatus for reproduction of pictures.

A Picture "Beat"

A few weeks after the Churchill-Roosevelt meetings of last year, pictures of the two anti-Axis leaders appeared on front pages of underground newspapers.

To prove to their compatriots on the other side of the frontiers that it can be done, these daring editors regularly sneak out to their consulates and information offices in London and New York micro-films of their editions. The Polish Information Center here has an almost complete file of the major underground newspapers.

The Polish underground even boasts two comics—the weekly "Lipa" first published Nov. 2, 1940, with the editor's note that "We are laughing over graves," and the monthly "Szpilka."

366 Prisoners from Captured U. S. Islands Well Treated by Japanese

Red Cross Reports on Condition of Men Captured from Gilbert, Wake and Guam Islands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3—The 366 United States prisoners of war, who were captured on Gilbert, Wake and Guam islands by the Japanese and interned at Zentsuji, island of Shikoku, are being well treated, the International Red Cross reported in a cablegram made public today by Rep. White (D-Idaho).

However, the men want more entertainment, fancier food and mail from the folks back home.

This was the most detailed account received through neutral sources to date on the welfare of men who fell into enemy hands.

Rep. White was chosen to release the report, presumably because many of the soldiers and civilians captured in the American outposts were residents of Idaho, Oregon and Washington. The civilians were engaged in military construction work on the captured islands.

Word Comes Through Navy

The cablegram from an agent of the International Red Cross was transmitted to the navy department here and then turned over to White. It said in part:

"Have visited camp for prisoners of war at Zentsuji March 12, accompanied by aid from the information bureau and the Japanese Red Cross. Camp on large island of Shikoku in the north near inland sea on fertile plain between hills covered with pines; good climate; no endemical diseases.

"Market town of Zentsuji with 25,000 inhabitants nearby. Camp covers six acres surrounded by barbed wire and a wooden fence. Two army barracks, two stories high, well ventilated, x x x. Capacity 500; present number 374. One Englishman from Shanghai, two Dutchmen, five Australians and rest Americans of whom eight are from Gilbert island, twenty from Wake and the rest from Guam. Forty five officers, 10 doctors, two druggists, one dentist.

"Barracks recently divided into rooms of from one to fourteen camp beds, each having five blankets, a pillow and mattress for officers. Heating by modern stoves.

Daily Food Rations

"Daily rations 300 grams of bread, 300 rice, 160 wheat plus potatoes, sweet potatoes, green vegetables, fish, eggs, etc. Total 3,200 calories. Wheat, sugared food and in this season, fruits are rather rare. Young and active prisoners are losing weight, old and idle prisoners gain weight.

"Cooks chosen from prisoners work in separate kitchens which are large and clean.

"Tobacco ration is 10 cigarets per one to three days according to rank. x x x daily laundering; good hygiene; large hot Japanese bath daily for workers and weekly for others. Latrines clean and isolated.

"x x x fifteen wounded in infirmary of whom seven wounded by bombs and one had leg amputated above the knee. All getting along well. No dead. American dentist wants to practice. We will procure instruments for him.

"Prisoners wish books, equipment for sports and games, piano, typewriters. Protecting power will take charge of that.

"Religious services conducted by a minister who is also a prisoner. Two hundred prisoners work voluntarily to clear nearby hill for potatoes, sweet potatoes, wheat. x x x paid 60 to 80 yen a day according to rank. x x x

Want Word From Families

"Principal need is that of corresponding with families. Letters not sent in view of lack of communications. At beginning of March officers authorized to send personal messages to their families in America by radio but remain without any answer.

"Prisoners wish to receive financial assistance by cable from their families through the intermediary of the U. S. navy department or the Red Cross. Have already asked by radio for packages of preserves, meat, fruits, sweets, American tobacco.

"No complaint on subject of treatment; discipline and organization are excellent. Commanding officer and officers competent and friendly. Prisoners sensible. General impression very good."

Ever think of polishing up your "raw material"?

Maybe your tresses require the hand of an "artiste" before they show many signs of life—maybe you're four inches too tall or four inches too short—maybe you have a sallow complexion—maybe your eyes are "just eyes".

Maybe you sit around home and moan about all these things—but did you ever think of polishing up your "raw materials"?

The people in Hollywood who devote all their time to the designing and making of women's clothes have proven again and again that "just average" girls can become extraordinarily attractive, simply by wearing the proper clothes.

First of all, get a pretty good line on what colors are most flattering to you. Then check up on your limitations. If you're definitely of the sweet, schoolgirl variety, don't go in for slinky, clinging-vine numbers. Dress to suit your particular type. Another important thing to remember is that three carefully chosen, well-made frocks will last longer than five of the "other kind".

Go through the dress shop ads in this paper every evening. Tear out the things that appeal to you. Then visit those shops and make your selections. From there on—you're on your own!

Boo! Message for Hitler

IT IS springtime, 1942, and once more mankind is keeping an eye on Adolf Hitler. Where will he strike? How many million men will be used to attain this objective or that one? What is the meaning of his latest move? What is in the back of his head? The front of his head?

This has been going on for five years. Springtime has been dramatized by Adolf Hitler, with distorted backdrops of horror and skin-prickling sound effects. What would he do next? On what particular piece of loot was the evil eye fixed? What Sunday would he pick to launch a new campaign?

It is happening again now, but perhaps the apprehensionists will be tolerant enough to admit that the act is beginning to get stale. Adolf Hitler has moved momentously on many occasions since they began to hang breathlessly on his strategy. He has played on human psychology as a maestro might play on a color organ. And with what effect?

Germany has not won the war. It is further from winning the war than it was in 1939 when it began the war, in the spring of 1940 when it tried to subdue Europe with its blitz, or in the fall of the same year when it undertook to obliterate Great Britain with aerial torpedoes. Its principal accomplishments to date, aside from exhausting itself in a war that ultimately must be lost is to make an enemy of Russia, its nemesis on the east, and to make a belligerent of the United States, its nemesis on the west. Its ally in Europe has crumpled, and its ally in Asia, which is not really an ally at all but an accomplice, has discovered that even with the advantage of surprise it is a long, long way from driving the white man (Germans also are white men) out of the sphere of influence it claims. Germany is making its last stand in a war its leaders know it can't win.

Instead of shivering in suspense about what Adolf Hitler may or may not do, there will be a great many Americans this spring wondering whether the guy really knows, himself, what he is going to do. By way of a spring salute to his majesty of the funny mustache and murderous intentions, "Boo!"

It Was Worth Trying

SIGNS multiply that the Roosevelt administration is not going to let anything happen in the form of labor law revision that might incur the criticism of organized labor leaders. Administration leaders in the senate proved the other day they are willing to go to extreme lengths to hold revision at arm's length.

Their argument, boiled down, is this: That the country can't afford to do anything to excite organized labor at this time; it must let well enough alone; there isn't any reason for being critical of the 10-hour week because the whole thing is a misunderstanding anyway; and besides all of organized labor criticism is "inspired."

This is, of course, palpable nonsense, but it happens to be official nonsense and, therefore, of great importance. Before the question that was implicit in criticism of the Roosevelt administration's hands-off attitude is buried under 10 tons of guff, it should go on record somewhere that the idea of doing something about it was worth trying.

It was worth trying because some day a research scholar may wonder how it happened that, with so many points of friction between the labor minority, the government that had decided organized labor could do no wrong and the people who were paying the freight for a policy of giving workmen a bonus for working more than five eight-hour days in a national emergency, someone didn't squawk. A lot of Americans did squawk, but it was officially decided not to pay any attention to them squawking.

One Thing Leading to Another

THOUGH sometimes spoken of carelessly as a sign of spring, the grass fire—also known as fireman's headache—really is proof of spring.

When the grass is dry enough to burn, someone will get the idea. The fire will start harmlessly in one corner of the field. It will creep along modestly, making a great deal of smoke. Everything will be fine.

Then a gust of wind will catch it and whoosh! There will be a terrific crackling and a lot of excitement. Somebody's garage will be threatened. The whole neighborhood will turn out to share in the apprehension.

Someone, of course, will turn in a fire alarm, and the firemen will show up, looking as bored and disgusted as they feel, because it is the seventh grass fire they have helped to put out that day. Personally, they're mighty glad when people who play with matches, most of them adults, get tired of proving that spring is here and settle down to enjoy summer.

News Behind the News

Mystery of India Deepened by Action on the Cripps Offer.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 3—The diplomatic mysteries of India politics were never more perplexing than when its leaders rejected the Cripps offer at first on the ground it would not let them lead their own army against Japan—when they have no leader.

Troops they had aplenty, about a million of them, 160,000 of whom fought for the British in Malaya or North Africa. But few native officers among them have risen above the position of lieutenant or captain. They have no major colonels, generals, capable of handling large masses of troops, no one to plan strategy or make a battleline.

The known internal political factions, furthermore, clearly would prevent elevation of these captains to generals, even if the Indian leaders were sufficiently unaware of military matters to try it.

The Moslems hate the Sikhs and vice a to such an extent that the imprisonment of either faction as a leader over the troops of the other would be like putting General Yamashita over the Australians. War would start right there, and not against the Japs.

NEHRU

Nehru

The apparent unreasonableness of the stand immediately caused some widespread suspicions in this country that Nehru, the strong man of India, was in fact acting like a petulant child, moping over past wrongs of the British, unaware of the greater peril at the gates of Burma.

That was not the estimate of Nehru prevalent in official quarters here. India's politics may be black on the surface but it is never nonsensical—to the Indians. Nehru is a responsible and intelligent leader, fully the equal of British statesmen, a little on the idealistic side, and thereby possibly prone to overestimate the capacity of Indians—but not as much as represented.

There is reason here to believe Nehru knew what he wanted from the start, and thought the British needed him so badly he could get it if he played his cards coyly. He wanted as much domestic independence as he could get, dominion status if necessary, but he wanted it now.

By insisting on the right of India to lead its own troops into battle, even though it could not do so, he would gain control now. Of course, as soon as he got the right he would have to call on the British generals to furnish the leadership. But at least he would have established his right.

Personal

Nehru's personal political situation also lay behind his peculiar (to the outside) position. He had just been released from jail, for having said, before the Japanese outbreak Dec. 7, that India should not go to war for British imperialism. Naturally to him, the technical point of acquiring the right to ask for British leadership, is therefore of even greater importance. Anything else would be an abasing abandonment of his principle.

He has taken a lot of personal setbacks in the past, at the round table conference, in the India elections, once when Gandhi forced him to accept compromise. He probably could not take another and maintain his position as strong man of India.

Cripps knew his plan could not be wholly accepted—for another less technical reason. The Sikhs came out against it first, and naturally so. Since the time of Christ they have ruled the Punjab Area, even after they were overrun by Moslem infiltration, simply because they were tougher than the Moslems and enjoyed fighting more than any other form of recreation or business. Under the Cripps plan, or under the democratic idea, they would have to surrender to Moslem leadership, because they are a minority, even in their own region.

But Cripps had to appeal to the Moslems, because of their strong position, particularly in the outside world. In India proper the Moslems have about 77,000,000 the Sikhs only 4,500,000 and the Hindus about 210,000,000.

Different

The British knew the Indians would never go over to the Japs the way the Burmese did. They do not consider themselves Orientals. They have no kinship with the Japanese. They are friendly to China, but in a neighborly sense, rather than one of kinship.

Their historic policy of passive resistance they know would be less effective against the Japs than it has been against the British. The Japs would merely drag them out into the streets and murder them by the thousands in accordance with established axis principles of acquiring support.

Hospitals Efficient

Annual Survey Shows Improved Service.

The constantly increasing efficiency of hospitals in this country is revealed in the twenty-first annual census of hospitals by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical association, published in The Journal of the Association. The census shows that "The average stay per patient in general hospitals has been reduced from 14 days in 1935 to 12 days in 1941, an average saving of two days per patient. For all the 10,616,947 patients in general hospitals in 1941 the aggregate saving was 58,339 years. Figuring this saving at $4 a day, the cost of hospitalization for each patient admitted was $8 less than it would have been in 1935, the equivalent of a saving of $85,175,576 in hospitalization costs."

During the period from 1935 through 1941 the length of stay in government general hospitals dropped from 22 to 18 days and in nongovernmental general hospitals from 11 to 10 days. In general hospitals operated under federal auspices a reduction from 30 to 21 days was made, in those under state auspices from 21 to 18 days, in county hospitals from 20 to 18 days, in city hospitals from 16 to 15 days and in city-county hospitals from 17 to 12 days. In church related hospitals the average stay dropped from 12 to 10 days in the same period and in all non-profit association hospitals from 11 to 10 days. In hospitals operated and owned by individuals and partnerships the rate remained stationary at eight days. In those operated by corporations for profit it dropped from nine to eight days.

The census discloses a total of 6,358 registered hospitals, an increase of 67 over the number on the Register one year ago. The growth of hospital facilities for the past year was the equivalent of one 269 bed hospital for every day, Sunday and holidays included.

THE capacity of registered hospitals amounts to 1,324,381 beds and 86,163 bassinets. There are 98,136 more beds and 4,224 more bassinets than one year ago.

An editorial in the same issue of The Journal points out that "the data submitted suggest that the hospitals of this country have never been in better position to meet successfully such demands as may be made."

It is revealed by the census that during the year 11,596,188 patients entered registered hospitals as compared with 10,067,548 in 1940, an increase of 14.95 per cent. This means that patients entered hospitals at the rate of one for each 2.7 seconds day and night throughout 1941, including Sundays and holidays.

The average census of patients in hospitals was 1,087,039, an increase of 60,868 over the previous year. The average occupancy rate in general hospitals was 68.2 per cent compared with 70.3 per cent for the preceding year and the average number of idle beds in general hospitals for 1941 was 169,684, compared with 137,200 in 1940. The occupancy rate of all registered hospitals was 82.1 per cent for 1941 as compared with 83.7 per cent for 1940. However, it is pointed out in the report that "although there was a large increase in number of patients admitted to hospitals during the year, it does not necessarily follow that the rate of occupancy would be higher. Indeed, it appears that because of the rapid turnover of patients—that is, the shorter stay per patient—the rate of occupancy is not much greater than in previous years. . . .

One person for each 11 in the United States entered a hospital as a paatient in the year 1941, using the 1940 census and counting only bed patients.

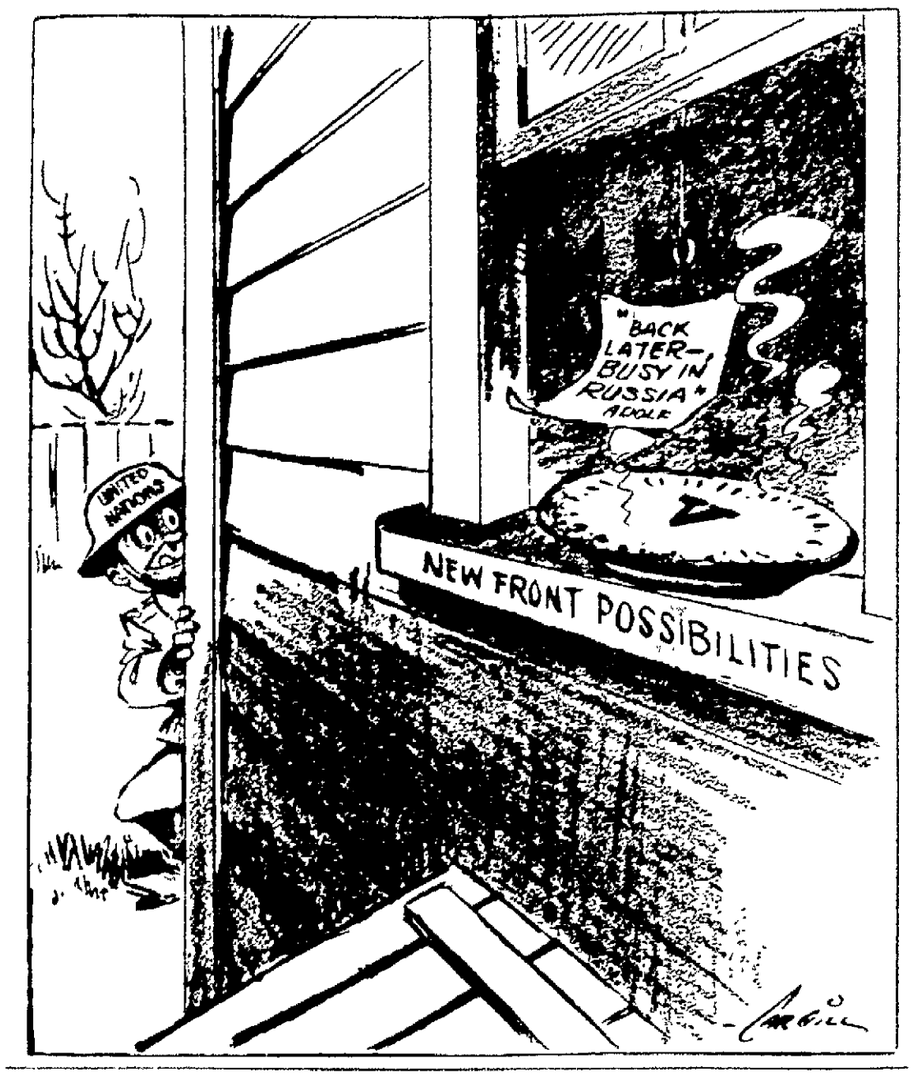
WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?



Bombers — History of Brutalitarianism

By the National Geographic Society.

FROM Warsaw to Port Moresby, the landmarks of World war II have been the cities—famous and little known, fortified and undefended—which have quaked under the impact of aerial bombs.

First aerial bombing raid in history was in 1849 during Austria's siege of Venice. For many days the Austrians released a large number of hot air-inflated balloons, each carrying a bomb equipped with automatic release. Only a few in Venice were killed or injured, but demoralization was rife, until the attackers ran out of balloons.

Bombing on a destructive scale was born of the first World war. At that time the airplane was in swadling clothes. Before 1914 bomb-dropping was scarcely more than a stunt. Civilian aviators at exhibitions dropped oranges on targets.

At the beginning of World war I airplanes were thought to be of value chiefly for observation. In one of the earliest aerial combats, a British pilot flew his plane close to a German's and threw a pair of binoculars with such unerring aim as to knock the enemy unconscious and cause his plane to crash.

Bombs were taken up at first in wooden boxes, packed in sawdust to prevent premature explosion. Against infantry, early planes dropped—as an alternative to bombs—thousands of pencil-size steel darts. A World war I bomber carried at best but a few hundred pounds of bombs. Today's four-engined giants carry five tons.

Earliest extensive bombing was by Zeppelins on English coastal cities during 1915, but the airships were so vulnerable that they were displaced by planes. In the first 12 months of the first World war, bombing fleets grew from one and two planes to groups of 30, 40, 50 and 60.

ON AUG. 30, 1914, less than a month after France entered World war I, German planes dropped five bombs on Paris.

First bombing of London was by Zeppelin on May 31, 1915. A Hamburg paper commented: "We shall continue to send bombs 'made in Germany' and make them enter England without paying duty." There were 57 raids over England during the rest of 1914-1918 war—12 of them over London — which caused 1,500 civilian deaths.

Many cities were regularly bombed throughout World war I, but the technique was so new and the raids so small that damage was slight. Bombing rose to a crescendo of destructiveness in the Spanish civil war. Bombs scarred old and beautiful cities. Thousands of civilians were killed.

Japan's war against China has been punctuated with violent air raids. As Japan's forces pushed deeper into China, they acquired bases from which bombers struck at rich and populous central and southern China and at remote Yunnan and Szechwan provinces.

September, 1939, brought aerial warfare to western Europe. Germany's armies crashed into Poland, supported by clouds of planes. First, Gdynia, then other Polish cities were targets. Warsaw, refusing for weeks to surrender, was subjected to a continuous hail of bombs which razed whole sections. Warsaw became an example of what lay in store for many a proud city.

In 1940, Germany invaded Norway, and planes reduced peaceful towns to rubble. After British troops had landed at Namsos, the little city was destroyed by German bombers. Early in May the Low Countries were attacked. Many of Europe's oldest and handsomest towns were devastated.

THE battle of Britain— the long period of continuous attacks on English and Scottish cities—began Aug. 4, 1940, with raids on a number of cities on England's south coast, including naval bases. In return, British bombers struck as far as Turin and Milan in north Italy.

London's historic era of suffering and courage began on the afternoon of Sept. 7, 1940, when 400 German planes attacked the Thames docks and the tight-packed homes of the east end. For a week, the Germans threw their greatest effort into daylight bombing. Hundreds of planes were over London every day.

The RAF's Spitfires and Hurricanes, and the ground defenders' antiaircraft guns and balloon barrages, took a heavy toll. On one day 185 German planes were brought down. Prime Minister Churchill estimated that the Germans had dropped 5,000,000 pounds of bombs between Sept. 7 and Oct. 7 from a daily average of 400 planes, killing almost 7,000 civilians, wounding 10,000.

After Sept. 15, German tactics changed. Night raids, in which the bombardier lost accuracy, became the rule. These were continued against London with a few nights interruption [illegible] Nov. 15. On this date the Germans shifted to attacks in great force on Midland industrial cities. Coventry was first. The havoc done in that city gave us the verb "coventrize" to describe devastating bombing. At least 500 planes took part in the 10-hour attack.

Heavy night raids on London continued through the winter of 1940-41. On Dec. 29, 1940, the Germans threw vast quantities of incendiaries on the old city of London, financial and mercantile heart of the capital. The area was in large part destroyed by fire—but London fought on. Development of the night fighter resulted in mounting Nazi losses. British bombers, in stronger force, retaliated against the continent.

Lord Halifax recently announced that, up to the end of 1941, 43,357 men, women and children in the British Isles had been killed in air raids, almost 50,000 had been seriously injured.

Little Tokyo

By DAMON RUNYON

Out Here on the West Coast E[vacu]uation of Japanese Has Black Overtones of Tragedy.

LOS ANGELES, April 3—A slim young Ja[pan]ese in the uniform of a private of the U[nited] States army was helping his father and m[other] load a truck with household goods on [San] Pedro street in Los Angeles' "Little Tokyo" [the] other afternoon. The soldier was an Amer[ican] born youth, drawn into the army in the [draft]. The parents were aliens under evacuation or[ders].

The population of the district, once the la[rgest] Japanese colony in the United States, is ra[pidly] thinning out. On every hand there is the [bustle] and scuffle of packing and moving. Ever[y] furnishings of a Buddhist temple, a nice lo[oking] brick building in N Central street, were [being] carried out and put in trucks the day we [were] there.

In the windows of all the Japanese [stores] were big signs reading "Closing Sale." [On the] side, crowds of Americans, Mexicans and [Filipinos] were taking advantage of the bar[gains]. There did not appear to be many Japanese [buyers]. Little Japanese children played on [the] sidewalks of the sunny streets, one small [child] on a tricycle towing another boy and two [little] girls around on a sort of bobsled arrangement with iron wheels, 'mid much shrill laughter.

Other kids were playing in the alley. [On] several dead walls we saw chalkings in E[nglish] that included girls' names indicating that [the] Japanese youngsters have adopted the [old] American kid custom of writing on [walls]. A small red-bordered white banner hung [in] the window of one house bearing a star, [the] insignia of a man in the service from [that] house.

MANY small stores, barber shops, [restau]rants and professional offices are closed and the fixtures removed, while [the] larger stores show vastly depleted shelves [and] counters. Their windows were stripped of [display]s. The Japanese clerks and execu[tives] moved about in the confusion somewhat dazed. They were quite uncommunicative with strangers. Not many Japanese men and women were seen in the streets of the district that was the commercial center of their people in the country.

The names of H. Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, is appended to printed [notices] in the windows of many establishments. The signs stating that the property is under control of the United States government. One of these properties was the Fuji Movie theater which is locked and barred but still displays three sheets in the lobby of a Japanese movie starring George Oka, a Japanese cinema star.

Placards saying "We Are 100 Percent for the United States" appeared in windows, also Red Cross emblems. The blinds were drawn at most of the windows of the Miyako hotel, one of the chief Japanese hostelries of the district, the sign on the Showa hotel nearby with its quaint fleet of boxes seemed more cheerful. The offices of the rather famous importers were deserted and dismantled.

BOOK stores, art stores and ice cream and confectionery establishments were sold out. Even the photograph galleries, which probably outnumbered all other business enterprises in "Little Tokyo," unless we except oculists and opticians, were apparently liquidating. The Japanese are great hands for getting their pictures taken and spectacles have always been in great demand among them.

There is a considerable colony of Filipinos abutting on "Little Tokyo" and in fact lapping over into the Japanese district, but the Filipinos seemed to pay no attention to the Japanese. The Filipino pool halls in the district were busy the day we were there. A placard on Jackson street advertising "Japanese Massage" urged immediate patronage because of impending dissolution.

A chop suey restaurant in E 1st street had a brace of big porcelain josses in the window to indicate Chinese ownership and seemed thriving. A few doors away, a Japanese restaurant was closed and the interior dismantled. That there were some rather pathetic aspects of the evacuation cannot be denied, yet in considering it the thought occurs that in Japan, evacuated Americans would probably not be permitted to liquidate.

Actors at War Camps

By DON WHITEHEAD
Wide World Writer

NEW YORK—The stars of Broadway and Hollywood are discovering it's a lot of fun to work for nothing.

Guys and gals who wouldn't sign their name to a contract under four figures a week are serving up their glamor and laughs free to Uncle Sam's fighting men—and getting a bang out of it.

The secret is this: they know when they go to an army or navy center, fun-hungry soldiers and sailors give them a thunderous welcome.

"They're so hungry for entertainment that you can't look at those kids and not want to break your neck to show them a good time," says Kay Kyser, the old professor of the "College of Musical Knowledge," who is in town after a tour of military centers with his band.

"Sure, there's some ham in all of us. We like the cheers and the pats on the back, but it's more than that. Why, you can't help getting touched when you see tears of genuine gratitude in the eyes of a tough old brigadier general for the show you've given his men.

"As a matter of fact, we don't feel that we're doing the boys a favor. They're doing us a favor instead."

Between his Wednesday night broadcasts Kyser has visited more than 20 army and navy camps across the country.

Kyser's entertaining technique is a throwback to the days when he was a cheerleader at the Rocky Mount, N. C., High school and the University of North Carolina. Before an audience realizes it, he has them taking part in his show.

During one pep rally he hit a collegiate note by kidding the president and five deans into leading the cheers.

He has found that sailors and soldiers get the biggest laughs from jokes on military life, their superior officers, the military police and the kp's.

But some of the jokes, Kay says, are made instead of fiction—as in the case of Lieut. Commander Perry Wood at the San Diego naval training station.

The commander was making the rounds one night as senior officer of the watch when a recruit sentry challenged: "Halt! Who goes there?"

Perry replied, "the senior officer of the watch"—and then waited for the recruit to complete the ritual. The youngster was silent.

"I can't stand here all night!" Perry said sharply.

"By damn," the recruit replied, "you're a-gonna stand there 'til I think to ask you."

Over 390,000 people are employed in the cosmetic industry of the United States.

RUNAWAY BALLOON DRIFTS 300 MILES

Bag Finally Settles on Mountain in Pennsylvania.

By The Associated Press

HUNTINGTON, Pa., April 3—A runaway barrage balloon which snapped three power lines and led a crew of airdock workers on a 300-mile zig-zag chase in two states before settling placidly on an Allegheny mountainside was deflated today for shipment to its Ohio base.

A crew of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. employes who trailed the big bag in a bus from its dock at Suffield, O., near Akron, finally caught up with it last night halfway up Tussey mountain in central Pennsylvania.

The balloon was found by Troy Morton, fire warden. Its safety valve was open, causing it to descend and entangle its 2,000 foot cable in the trees.

Breaking from its Suffield moorings in a high wind at 10:30 a. m. yesterday, the balloon headed due east towards Pittsburgh. It traveled fast, Goodyear broadcast warnings that it was "very dangerous" and airplane pilots were advised to look out for it. Police followed its eastward odyssey.

First damage was caused when the dangling cable struck a utility company distributing circuit northeast of Pittsburgh. Before settling on a hill near Vandergrift it snagged and tore power lines serving homes in several communities.

Before it could be anchored on the hill, the balloon soared aloft again. It snapped two more power lines before climbing to an altitude of 5,000 feet. Utility crews hastened to repair damage.

The balloon was reported to be the third to break loose from moorings at the Ohio testing grounds.

Miss Wealthy Bish and Kenton Man Exchange Vows

MRS. VIRDEN CRAWFORD

THE home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bish of west of Marion was the scene of the marriage of their daughter, Wealthy, to Virden Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crawford of 440 East Ohio street, Kenton, last evening. Only the immediate families witnessed the single ring ceremony, read at 6:30 o'clock by Rev. Dale M. Limbert, pastor of the Green Camp Methodist church before an improvised altar of palms and gladioli and lighted with tapers held in two seven-branch candelabra. The tapers were lighted by Mrs. Harold Jones, sister of the bridegroom. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Beaver Bricker played a program of music, including "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me."

For her wedding Miss Bish chose a two piece dress in a soft blue shade, fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and a draped bodice trimmed in matching lace. Gores accented the street-length skirt. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls belonging to the bridegroom's mother and her flowers were an orchid.

Mrs. Bish was costumed in a navy dress and the bridegroom's mother wore a green print dress. Both wore corsages of sweet peas and roses.

For the wedding dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Bish were hosts following the ceremony the table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake and lighted with tall tapers. Later the couple left on a short wedding trip through the East. For traveling the bride wore a light green three-piece suit with navy accessories.

The bride was graduated from the Green Camp High school and Ohio State university. Prior to joining the staff of the Kenton High school where she is an instructor of home economics, she taught in the Dola High school. Mr. Crawford was graduated from the Kenton High school and Bowling Green State university. He received his master's degree at Ohio State university and is an instructor of science and mathematics in the Canfield High school, Canfield, O. He is a member of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, and prior to going to Canfield, was an instructor in the Dola High school.

Both plan to complete their school work.

LETTERS PRESENTED TO CLARIDON TEAM

County Champions Also Hear Talk by O. S. U. Star.

Jimmy Hull, 1938 All-America basketball player at Ohio State university, was the principal speaker last night at Claridon school when a recognition banquet was held in honor of the Claridon cage team, champions of both the county league and county tournament and runner-up to Marion St. Mary in the district tournament.

Coach A. B. Augenstein, now in his thirteenth year as athletic director and superintendent at Claridon, presented letters to the following youths: John Price, Merle Lashey Jr., Lewis Caskey, Bob Mayse, Allan Augenstein, Ed Gompf, Wesley Gatewood, Bill Chapman, Thoburne Kelly, Dick McGinnis, Bill Mercer, Warren Miller, and Lee Starner. Co-captains Lashey and Caskey responded for the team.

In his address Hull pointed out that cage success, for that matter victory in all projects of life, is won by confidence, determination, team cooperation, and strict observance of morals.

Hull, a resident of Greenfield, O., is enrolled in the dental college at Ohio State. During the last two basketball seasons he has assisted with freshmen basketball coaching at the university.

Among the 200 guests present were Supt. and Mrs. D. T. Mills and all other county school superintendents and coaches.

Upper Sandusky Man in Marion Hospital

Reuben Gottfried, plant superintendent at the Chief Dairy Products Co. in Upper Sandusky, was brought to City hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered Monday in an explosion at the company's plant.

Mr. Gottfried is being treated for severe eye and face burns. His condition was reported to be fair this morning.

He and George M. Tschanen were working in the building housing the cold storage system west of the main plant. At the time of the accident it was reported excessive pressure developing in the ammonia compressor caused the cylinder head of the compressor to blow off, letting ammonia gas escape. The two men, in a dazed condition, managed to get out of the building.

Randy's question, "Only two ...dred and twenty-five dollars, sir. It has been two hundred and seventy-nine fifty, but it's a bit late in the season."

"Oh, but, Randy"—she stammered, appalled.

Randy looked at her hard, and she subsided guiltily.

She saw him take a plump billfold from his pocket, and out of it came three one hundred dollar bills, leaving plenty behind. The salesman looked a trifle startled and fingered the bills curiously as he hurried away for change.

Randy said grimly, "I'm about to march you into the best jewelry shop in town for the express purpose of selecting an engagement ring and a wedding ring. The choice is with you—the price is for me to worry about. And so help me, if you so much as say 'peep' about it, I'll turn you down across my knee with the business end of a slipper in my good right hand! Heck, gal, don't you know anything about spending money?"

"How would I—a lamp-tender who thought ten dollars a month in cash was important money?" demanded Melissa with unexpected spirit. "I bought the entire wardrobe that I had when I came to the show boat for a little less than a hundred dollars. And you expect me to say, 'Pish—it's nothing!' when you lay down two hundred and twenty-five dollars for a mere animal skin."

"Ah, but what an animal skin," said Randy, grinning a little. "Never mind, sweet — spending money is something that you'll learn easily—or I'll know the reason why! We're young, we've got lots of money, and what's it for if not to spend?"

To Melissa there was something faintly alarming about that thought, but she wasn't quite sure just where the danger lay. And it was much too perfect a day and she was much too happy to quarrel—as though she could ever, by any crazy stretch of the imagination, quarrel with Randy! The thought was so absurd that she laughed aloud.

Irene Again

The ring was selected after an hour of almost prayerful consideration by Melissa, who hung above the tray of shining hoops like a child fascinated by a fairy-tale come true. Randy had insisted that the ring must be not a diamond but an emerald. Green was her color, green was his favorite color. He almost said it was his "lucky" color, but caught the superstitious words just in time.

And Melissa's choice, aided by a whispered colloquy between Randy and the salesman, finally fell on a square cut stone set in platinum—a green flame set in frost—so beautiful that Melissa would have walked along the street holding her hand in front of her to admire it, if Randy, with a little adoring chuckle, hadn't tucked the hand through his arm and held it.

In a small white velvet box in his pocket there was a hoop of platinum set with diamonds that would mark their marriage a week from that day.

Melissa walked on air. They had luncheon in an impressive hotel surrounded by crowds of well dressed people who seemed very happy, to judge by their laughter and brightly toned chatter; then went to the race track, where Randy took her on a tour of the stables, where the thoroughbreds awaited their turn at the track.

There were well dressed men and women who greeted Randy with eagerness and obvious pleasure—men who were almost too well dressed, too shiningly well groomed, their eyes cold, wary, their hands manicured, often adorned with a flashing diamond; the women with them as glossy-looking as hard-looking, carefully made up.

They crowded about Randy and were introduced to Melissa and there was a lot of good-humored chatter. But Randy was almost obviously anxious to get Melissa out of that crowd. As they crossed toward the grandstand, a man and a woman suddenly blocked their way. The woman was blond, well dressed; the man with her stout, his clothes well cut though of rather sober material, and he was 50 years old at least.

"Well, well, if it ain't the lamplighter kid" said the blond, and Melissa recognized her with a little start.

"Why, Irene!" she cried, and shook hands eagerly. "I am glad to see you."

"Then you could have given yourself a lot of fun by stopping in at the shop just any old time," said Irene drily. "I'm at the same place where I sold you your first wardrobe — though you seem to have graduated from my kind of duds, taking a look at you now."

"I'm singing on the show boat, and—well, people like me and I'm getting a good salary—" said Melissa, feeling awkward before the cynical look in Irene's eyes.

"I'll bet you are," said Irene, and sent a derisive, inimical glance at Randy.

"It might interest you to know," said Randy grimly, "that Melissa and I are going to be married a week from today."

Irene's eyes widened and she looked startled.

"Is that on the level?" she demanded, incredulous.

"We've just bought the ring. Look, isn't it beautiful?" said Melissa eagerly, and held out the hand that wore the magnificent stone. "And my fur—it's an engagement present—I suppose it is, isn't it, darling? My ring and it, too—it seems too much for one day!"

Snubbed

Irene's eyes took in the fur, dropped to the ring, and she nodded. "You're doing all right," she told Melissa emphatically. "And then to Randy, "It isn't possible that I'm going to have to give up thinking you're a stinker, is it?"

Randy said clearly and deliberately, "Funny, but I don't seem to give two hoots in Hades what you think about me."

Irene grinned cynically and nodded. "Well, you give this kid a break, my fine-feather so-and-so—or you may get terribly interested all of a sudden in what I think. Come on, Ralph—let's pick us a splay-foot that looks like he couqid get away from the starting post without assistance."

Her companion, who had been bewildered and painfully embarrassed by the little scene, nodded to Randy, raised his hat to Melissa and hurried off after Irene.

Randy and Melissa turned once more and started across to the grandstand. But before they reached it they were hailed by a group of men and women who were, Melissa saw instantly, different from those they had met back in the paddock. These men and women were of the type of the Marston and Mrs. Humphrey's and Honey Stevens—and Melissa's heart sank a little. But one of the men had seen Randy and hailed him with a jovial friendliness.

"Hello, Hendricks," he called, and came forward, his hand extended. "Glad to see you, old man. Come over here and tell us which horse is going to win the third."

Melissa hung back a little. Randy was absorbed in the group, surrounded, introduced, shaking hands with the men, answering the light, bright spatter of talk that surged and eddied around him, parrying their lighthearted insistence that he must have a tip on the next race.

"Mr. Hendricks," gushed a woman too youthfully dressed for her age and weight, "you simply must come and sit in our box and tell us all the good points in each race. Because, of course, you have all sorts of tips—"

Some of the tautness that had lain in Randy's face since the scene with Irene vanished.

"Thanks, that's very kind of you," he accepted the invitation. "And I'd like you to meet Miss Marlowe—"

He drew Melissa forward and introduced her. There was an instant and perceptible chill in the atmosphere that Randy did not grasp as he said lightly to Melissa, "Darling, these people would like us to join them in the clubhouse—"

The too youthfully dressed woman said instantly and smoothly, "Oh, I'm so sorry, Mr. Hendricks—I thought you were alone. We're rather a large party—I'm afraid there wouldn't be room for Miss Marlowe. What a shame! Perhaps some other time—"

She drew the others away with her, and over her shoulder there floated words that she obviously made no effort to keep from reaching Randy and Melissa. "A professional gambler might be very amusing, but his female associates—! My dear, one simply must draw the line somewhere!"

Melissa, seeing Randy's face, slid her hand through his arm.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, April 4

AN UNUSUALLY lively and eventful day is read from the predominant astral configurations, with much of a business, professional and literary nature engaging the attention. It should be a splendid aspect for writers, publishers, advertising and press agents or others in promotional enterprises. But these as well as other activities may develop strange or surprising angles, possibly with romance, adventure or the unpredictable materializing. This may incite nervous tension or other physical as well as psychological effects.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which the romantic or adventurous and strange may upset all steady and systematic calculations. With calmness, restraint and poise under such challenging circumstances, there may be surprising benefits and thrilling experiences.

A child born on this day should be financially favored, with many promises of success and independence, but this may be negated by either ill health, nervous tension or ungoverned romantic impulses.

Tuition-Plus For 20,000 With Flying Fighting Intuition

Uncle Sam's flying cadets don't have to pay tuition, of course, when they enter flying schools. But Uncle Sam has to pay "tuition plus," the whole schooling cost, to turn each eager, alert flying cadet into a flying fighter so thoroughly trained that "when the heat's on" and enemy planes cast flitting, darting shadows about him, he manipulates his controls instantly with smooth precision accuracy, largely by habit or a sort of learned intuition, just as one drives an automobile, only vastly more so.

The cost of that highly specialized, vital training—$25,000 per pilot—is, even in these billion dollar days, still a modest fortune, more money than more than 99% of us save in a lifetime. Yet, it is but 1/20,000th of the $510,000,000 which the electric power industry paid in taxes last year—taxes we were glad to pay to help Uncle Sam apply the axe to the Axis. We are glad, too, that even though taxes have gone up steadily, increased consumption and operating efficiency have constantly lowered electric rates. Today the average home gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago.

Meanwhile, the industry has planned ahead of America's power needs and this was prepared for the war emergency. Shipyards, arsenals, plane plants, etc., were supplied with power without delay and without curtailment of home use. And right on the job of helping make America ever more powerful will we stay until the Axis is smashed; then you'll find us back on the job of helping make America even more the best country in the world in which to live.

"BLACK LIST" STOPS OIL SALE TO ENEMY

Official Says Standard (N. J.) Refused To Cooperate.

By The Associated Press

[illegible] Assistant Secretary of State [illegible] the senate Committee [illegible] N. J. [illegible] Standard [illegible] Brazilian [illegible] Berle [illegible] Axis [illegible] Brazil.

"The black list" was applied to Standard's Brazilian subsidiary last October, Berle said.

The state department requested the company twice to stop supplying the lines before resorting to the blast list, Berle said. The company, through an attorney named Palmer, he said, contended that it would be liable to a damage suit if it breached its contract.

William La Varre, chief of the American republics office for the department of commerce, told the committee that Lati was established under German auspices in the fall of 1939 to operate between Rome, Africa, Brazil and Argentine.

It was established, he said, because of German dissatisfaction with axis propaganda progress in Latin America and was to furnish a means for sending both men and materials through the British blockade.

Propaganda and propaganda agents, he said, were thus enabled to reach not only all Latin-American countries but the United States as well.

La Varre submitted a list of German and Italian representatives who had traveled to and from South America on the airline, terming it "the most notorious record of enemies that ever traveled on any line."

SEEKS TO PROTECT RIGHTS OF LABOR

Sen. LaFollette Acts To Bar Oppressive Practices.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3—With the assertion that labor needed to be assured that the war emergency would not be used to deprive it of its rights, Senator La-Follette (Prog.-Wis) introduced a bill today fixing criminal penalties for "oppressive labor practices."

LaFollette, chairman of a labor subcommittee that made a four year investigation of anti-union activities, took cognizance of other pending labor legislation, including proposals to suspend the 40 hour week, when he said.

"If the nation has time for consideration of any labor legislation, then, by all means, this proposed act should be carefully weighed."

The measure, an amplified version of an oppressive-labor-practices act which passed the senate in 1940 only to die in the house labor committee, sets maximum penalties of a $10,000 fine or six months imprisonment for proscribed acts. These include the use of strike-breakers, private armed guards, the possession or use of firearms or tear gas during labor disputes, and interference with peaceful picketing.

In addition, the principle of the wage and hour act is applied so as to make it criminal for an employer who engages in oppressive labor practices to ship his goods in interstate commerce.

LaFollette declared his committee had unearthed "sordid violations of the rights of labor" in virtually every state.

Civilian Defense Office Will Move to Cleveland

COLUMBUS, O., April 3—Tomorrow is moving day for the fifth regional office of civilian defense.

Director Dan T. Moore and his staff will leave their offices in the Hartman mansion here and occupy new offices in Cleveland.

The headquarters office directs civilian defense activities in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky.

Exports of merchandise from the United States were valued at $5,145,236,000 for the calendar year 1941.

WAR BOARD BANS SALE OF BICYCLES

Defense Workers To Get First Call Under Rationing.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3—The sale, shipment, delivery or transfer of new bicycles for adults was banned today to halt a buying rush. A rationing system will be set up soon to give defense workers first call.

Another war production board ordered restricted the use of tinplated bottle caps and fluorescent lighting fixtures.

The bicycle order applied to every bicycle with a frame measurement of more than 19 inches from the center of the crank to the head of the saddle stuff post which has never been used by an ultimate consumer. It included so-called "victory" models.

The ban on sales, a war production board spokesman said, applies "even if a bicycle was ordered and paid for prior to the issuance of the order."

"The order was issued because of the terrific rate at which bicycles have been going to people who don't need them, with too few going to people like defense workers who have to have them now, or soon will need them," explained M. D. Moore, chief of the WPB bicycle section.

War Plant Group Guests at Luncheon

Marion business men were to be given opportunity to become acquainted with the army and civilian personnel holding responsible positions in connection with the Scioto Ordnance Plant in a meeting this afternoon following a luncheon in Hotel Harding.

ORDER FREEZING ALL GOODS CONSIDERED

All Consumer Items Would Be Affected.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 3 — An order freezing prices of all consumer goods not already under ceiling orders, it was learned today, is under discussion between high officials of the office of price administration and the war production board.

Such a blanket freezing order, to be applied at both retail and wholesale levels, has been discussed for some time, responsible OPA sources said, and "the meetings have been more frequent recently." A definite discussion has not been reached, it was said.

The action, if forthcoming, would take the form of a permanent freezing order, cutting prices back to the levels of some chosen date, probably several months ago, it was reported.

Numerous administration officials have voiced dissatisfaction with present price control methods, holding them to be too slow to check an inflationary trend.

This feeling has been accentuated with the flood of new WPB curtailment and production stoppage orders of recent weeks, affecting radios, phonographs, vacuum cleaners, electrical appliances and many other major and minor consumer items. As each curtailment order has appeared, a buying rush has occurred and prices have moved up, resulting in such emergency action as last night's freezing of bicycle sales.

Ohioan Hopes To Be First To Take Irish Bride

By The Associated Press

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 3—Private Herbert W. Cooke, 20, of the United States forces in northern Ireland, said today he hopes to be the first American trooper married here. His fiancee is Thelma Smith, 18, a Belfast waitress.

"My father who lives at Cleveland, O., has cabled his consent and we're going right ahead," Cooke said.

"My commanding officer has told me he has no power to prevent me taking this step. I'd be a very disappointed young man if anything happened to spoil things. We're both very much in love."

400 Nazi U-Boats Expected in War on U. S. Shipping

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

With the swelling of the bloody battle along the great Russo-German front, and intensification of Hitler's preparations for offensive operations which may cut in several directions, we are told by reliable sources in Washington to expect the all-out Nazi U-boat drive which this column forecast many weeks ago.

It is estimated that the Nazis will let loose in the Atlantic a submarine pack of anything up to 400—maybe more—to prevent the United States from transporting equipment to Europe, especially to Russia.

The unwelcome fact is that we now are piling up equipment which we cannot move because of the immediate lack of ships. Hitler is sinking them.

Already the depredations of the fuehrer's sea-wolves have been heavy. Official details naturally are meager. Washington announcements generally employ blunt, succinct language.

From the time of Pearl Harbor to March 28, the officially announced sinkings on this side of the Atlantic were: Off the U S coast, 49; off Canada, 21; in the Caribbean, 22; off South America, 1; total 91.

That's a lot of good ships gone to the bottom. And the anxious work of a host of good men—tanks, airplanes and what not—presumably has been lost, not overlooking the precious oil tankers and their cargoes. Still, we can get some satisfaction from the fact that, as was remarked Wednesday by Rear Admiral Simons, commandant of the Fifth naval district, the axis has "paid a terrible price in both submarines and men."

With the allied necessity of rushing war material to the Soviet for the spring fighting, the route to the Russian port of Murmansk has become of vital importance to the allies. The Arctic toll-head is the hopper through which supplies are fed into the great red mill which has been grinding out defeat.

And upon this route the Nazis are concentrating heavy attacks.

CAMP BATTLE

Major Woldike described the ensuing events:

An M.P. attempted to halt the argument and had words with a Negro soldier who lunged unsuccessfully for the M.P.'s pistol, tapping the holster. The Negro ran outside and the M.P. fired a shot after ordering him to halt.

This brought a fusillade from the barracks across the road from the amusement center.

The Negroes had been on the firing range in the afternoon and, although regulations require all troops to be touched upon leaving, some must have salvaged ammunition, Major Woldike said.

30 Shots Fired

Military police deployed in front of the barracks. More than 50 bullets were fired.

The dead:

Private Manse W. Strough, white, of Honeycamp, Va., a military policeman.

Private Isaac W. Brown, Negro, Henderson, Tenn.

Corporal W. E. Hall, Negro, of Conoyers, Ga.

The wounded, none seriously, were Corporal Millatte E. Hammond, no address given; and Privates Evans Webber, Pinkley Reed, John T. Robinson, no addresses given, and L. V. Martin, Greenwood, Miss., all Negroes.

Major Woldike said some of the shooting was indiscriminate as indicated by the fact two of the wounded men evidently were hit by stray bullets. One was wounded as he lay under a table in the sports palace and another as he was taking a shower in the barracks.

Col. Herbert E. Forest, post executive officer, has started an investigation.

DEALERS PUSH SALE OF CARS

Washington Official Indicates Restrictions Have Been Too Severe.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 3—Automobile dealers took the bit in their teeth today and went out to sell new cars after a price administration official inferred that many rationing boards had been too strict as to eligible new car buyers.

Simultaneously, the government official announced OPA would place price ceilings on used cars within a week or two, but no rationing of second hand machines is planned.

Cyrus McCormick III, chief of OPA's automobile and truck section, yesterday told a conference of more than 1,000 dealers, salesmen, rationing board members and others that the government expected the full quotas of new cars to be sold but that in most cases this had not been done.

Although McCormick did not order rationing boards to liberalize their standards, he cited several instances where he thought new cars could have been granted.

"The basic thought behind automobile rationing is to distribute the non-pool stock of cars in an orderly manner to the preferred classifications of purchasers within approximately a year," he said.

"There have not been enough applications filed, and it is the duty of the dealers to create in the public mind that transportation for war workers must continue.

"It is not a crime to own a new automobile. It is a crime for a person who needs an automobile in war work not to have one."

McCormick pointed out that regulations state new cars may be sold to persons "directly or indirectly" engaged in war work. Those eligible were to be determined entirely by the local ration board, and OPA would in no way interfere with local interpretations.

But he added the word "indirectly" was purposely put in to enable a free flow of cars. More new cars on the streets will bring more second-hand machines to the dealers and it is these cars which are looked to for fluidity of transportation.

When rationing board officials asked that McCormick put in writing what they called his more liberal interpretations he declined saying Washington did not want to regiment the boards. As an example it is entirely up to each board, he said whether it shall require applicants to appear before it when considering new car requests. The OPA has no regulations on board attitudes.

Hercules Powder Plant Fire Under Control

By The Associated Press

KENVIL, N. J., April 3—A threatening fire which was later reported under control broke out today at the Hercules Powder Co. plant, scene of an explosion which took 52 lives in 1940.

The fire, in a dynamite house, for a time today threatened the plant, but state police said the flames had been extinguished.

The fire broke out in a huge paraffin kettle, Col. Charles Schoeffel, state police superintendent, was advised at his Trenton headquarters.

Marion Man, 99, To Celebrate Anniversary with Open House

R. W. Messenger Preparing for Spring Garden Work at Seffner Ave. Home.

A family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery of 297 North Seffner avenue, Sunday, will be a celebration of the 99th birthday anniversary of R. W. Messenger, father of Mrs. Montgomery, which will be Wednesday. The near centenarian also plans to celebrate the occasion by keeping open house to his friends on Sunday and also on the anniversary date.

Mr. Messenger, who makes his home with his son-in-law and daughter, is believed to be the oldest resident of Marion county. Joining the family for the birthday dinner will be Mr. Messenger's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Colonel W. Messenger of near Upper Sandusky and a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smith of Big Island township. Mrs. J. V. Cover, a daughter living in San Diego, Calif., and Mr. Cover may also be present for the anniversary. A son, J. G. Messenger, who is in the west will not be present, relatives state.

Mr. Messenger is quite active and is looking forward to planting and caring for his garden which he spaded last fall. As proof of his agility he still can touch his fingers to the floor without bending his knees. Possessing a keen memory he remembers events of 95 years ago and finds interest in present day happenings. He reads the headlines of the daily paper, and for details of current events he has his daughter read or tell them to him. In recalling hardships of the early days he tells that it was necessary to put sheep, hogs and cattle in a "house" at night to keep them from being attacked by wolves.

With the exception of a period of 10 years spent in the west Mr. Messenger has attended every Marion county fair since the first one held at Scott Town, now Meeks, in 1850 to last year's fair held at the County fairgrounds. In discussing them with his family he recalls many amusing incidents. He recalls his maternal grandmother Jane Matteson Johnson as a woman of many accomplishments such as spinning various sizes of thread and yarn, weaving, dipping candles, making soap for family use and other tasks which fell to the lot of the pioneer housewife.

The celebrant was born at Big Island April 6, 1843, to Colonel Everett and Elizabeth M. Johnson Messenger. He is one of four brothers whose lives have topped the century milestone. They are N. J. Messenger, who was 83 at the time of his death in 1928 and Everett Messenger, 91, and J. Ira Messenger, 83, both of Arcadia, Calif. Also he is one of 15 grandchildren of Reuben and Hannah Messenger who passed their 80th year.

Automobile drives are among his most enjoyable diversions and no jaunt is ever too long for him.

melt telephoned to demand that he cease his attacks.

Police Chief Fred Hoelscher said Wenstrom replied:

"If you come over and tell that to my face I'll knock your beak off."

Hammett went, armed with two 45 caliber automatic pistols and with a hammer stuck in his belt, Hoelscher added. The chief and Deputy District Attorney James Chapman pieced together this meager version of the encounter:

Hammett walked up to Wenstrom's room and talked with Wenstrom, who had a 38 automatic. Mrs. Wenstrom came out.

Suddenly guns blazed. Wenstrom slumped forward, dead on the porch. Mrs. Wenstrom, hysterical, leaned against a porch pillar screaming, until she drooped unconscious.

Hammett was lying in the driveway, 20 feet from the porch, when neighbors rushed up.

Hammett did not tell officers who fired first. Mrs. Wenstrom was unable to talk because of her jaw injury. She has two sons, David, 2, and Donald Lincoln, 2 months.

Major Wenstrom was recognized as a weather authority in the army. His book "Weather and the Ocean of Air" appeared on newsstands only yesterday.

Major Hammett resides in exclusive Suburban Montecito. He is an art patron and president of the new Santa Barbara museum of art. He is a son-in-law of W. H. Cowles, Spokane, Wash., newspaper publisher. He has a wife, Harriett Cowles Hammett, and two sons, Danny 6 and Larry, 9.

Ickes Proposes Limit on Ohio Gas Stations

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 3—The marketing committee of District 2, office of petroleum coordinator, recommended today that gas stations in Ohio and 14 other midwest states limit their hours of operation to 12 hours a day, not to exceed 84 hours a week.

The recommendation was dispatched to Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes at Washington. If Ickes approves, the procedure would be for his office to issue a directive to the industry to put the limitations into effect at a certain date.

Dealers decided there was a necessity for closing retail outlets for part of each day to conserve electric power and labor.

Choice of hours of operation for any day was left to the individual retailers, under the recommendations.

UNIFORM DEFENSE ORDINANCE DRAFTED

Bricker Proposes Ohio Cities Adopt Measure.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 3—The Ohio state council of defense today asked all municipalities to adopt a uniform ordinance to protect the life and property of civilians in event of air raids or sabotage.

The model ordinance was drawn by Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert. Gov. Bricker as chairman of the defense council suggested it be adopted immediately.

Governor Bricker and Attorney General Herbert said the ordinance authorizes the mayor to carry out air raid protection measures as ordered by the army. It also empowers mayors to appoint special policemen to serve during blackouts or air raids. They have the same authority as regular policemen, but are required to wear an identifying emblem.

The ordinance provides penalties up to $500 and six months imprisonment for any unauthorized person who turns in air raid alarms, gives orders for a blackout or prematurely ends a blackout or air raid.

Officials are given authority to enter upon premises with reasonable forces to extinguish lights. Residents are required to extinguish all outside lights about their premises, but may keep inside lights burning if properly concealed.

Motorists are required to pull to the curbs and shut off their motors and extinguish lights except emergency vehicles.

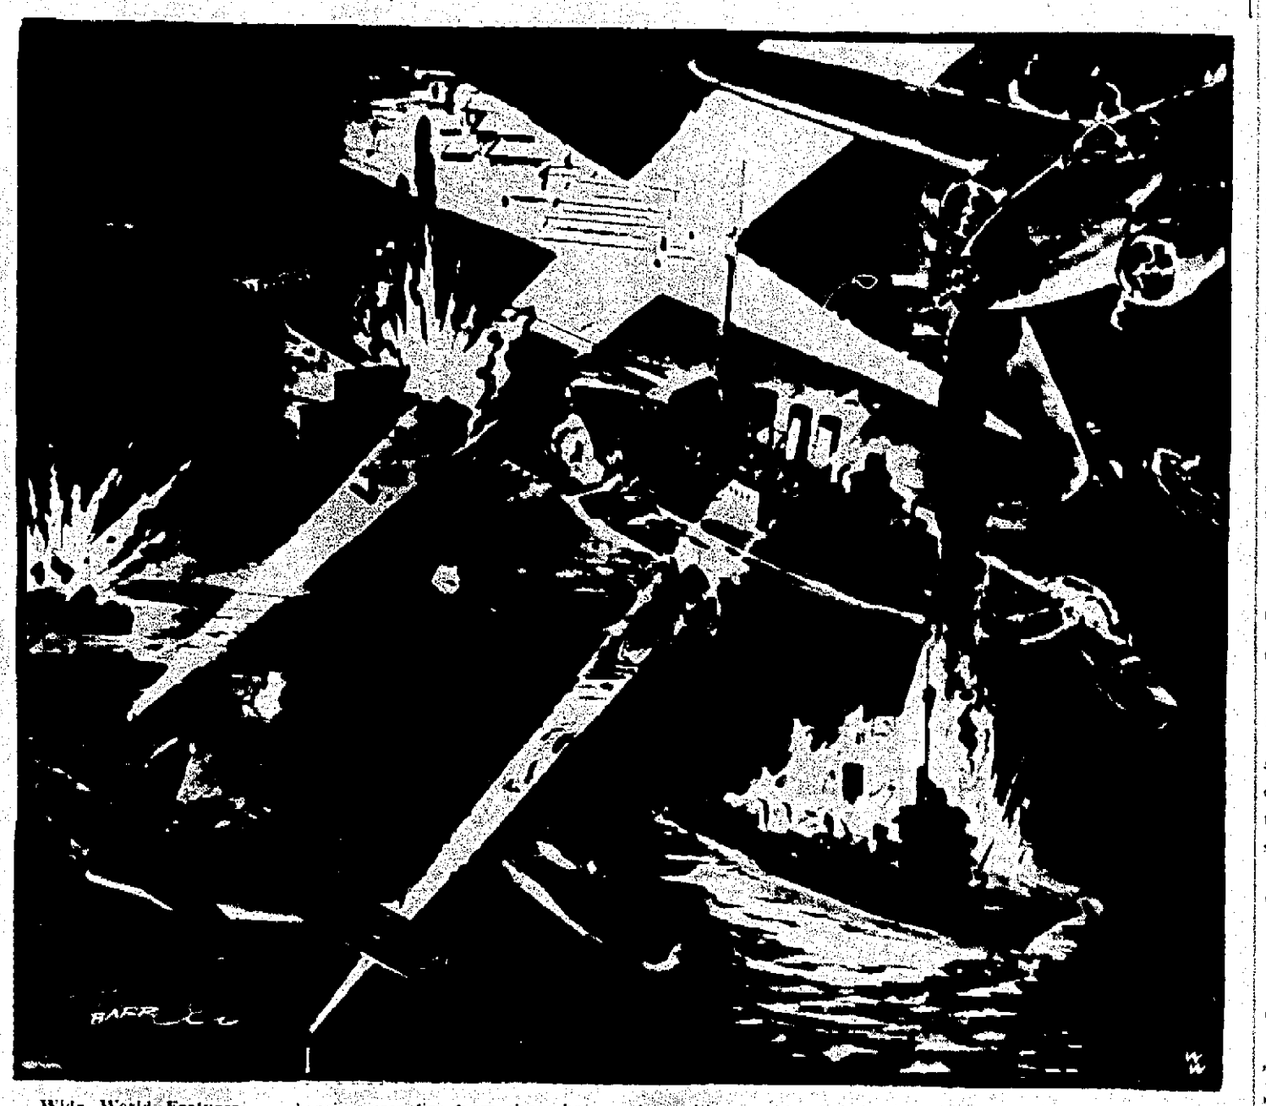
How British Commandos Wrecked Sub Base



Wide World Features

Here is Wide World Features Artist Henry Barrow's conception of the British commandos' raid on the German submarine base at St. Nazaire, France—a spectacular assault in which a former U. S. destroyer played a major part.

Official British reports told how the destroyer Campbeltown—the Buchanan when she flew the American flag—was laden with five tons of explosives and driven through a criss-cross fire from shore batteries.

Steaming at 20 knots, the Campbeltown was jammed into the narrow basin entrance, while a darting torpedo boat fired two torpedoes at the lock gates of the basin.

Ashore, meanwhile, commandos from assault boats swarmed through the powerhouse and dock operating gear houses, dynamiting and demolishing machinery.

Searchlights swept the water and the skies overhead, where British dive bombers sought to cover the attackers. In the confusion, the British said, shore batteries sank the German anti-aircraft ship in the foreground.

The Campbeltown, finally, was abandoned by her crew and accomplished her mission when her delayed-action explosives wrecked the basin entrance.

It was Britain's most spectacular smash at the source of the Atlantic U-boat menace, and ranked with the celebrated World War I assault on Zeebrugge.

Commando casualties—dead, wounded and prisoners—amounted to about 100.

TAFT FEARS GHOST TOWNS IN STATE

Wants War Orders for Small Plants in Ohio.

WASHINGTON, April 3—Small business must be given a larger part in war production or Ohio will be dotted with ghost towns where small manufacturing plants have been forced to close, Sen. Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, believes.

"I can not go into a single county seat in Ohio which is not largely kept alive and supported and its independence maintained by one or more small manufacturing plants," he told the senate in a discussion of legislation to help smaller factories convert to war work.

If big business is given all the war contracts, he added, "we shall practically wipe out a large number of the smaller towns in Ohio."

He declared the purpose of the legislation was to mobilize all the nation's productive facilities and preserve small business for the future.

"Small business is being given a very small part in the war and it faces a serious crisis. If not complete destruction unless deliberate and thoughtful action is taken," Taft said.

Erie Business High in 1941

President Woodruff Reports $7,930,528 Net Income; Gross Revenue Largest in 11 Years.

The Erie railroad, in a report sent to its stockholders by Robert E. Woodruff, a former Marion resident who is now president of the company, lists a net income of $7,930,528 for 1941 as compared with $14,263 in 1940.

Mr. Woodruff's report states that 1941 was an eventful year for the company, bringing to a completion its organization last Dec. 22, coupled with a sharp increase in its volume of business.

The reorganization reduced the company's fixed charges from approximately $14,000,000 a year to approximately $7,000,000 the changes in the capitalization setup reducing the company's capital stock from $241,868,100 to $136,831,252, and cutting its total funded debt from $286,308,825 to $201,338,925.

Properties Acquired

The company acquired during the year the properties of the Nypano Railroad Co., the Cleveland and Mahoning Valley Railway Co., Chicago and Erie Railroad Co. and eight subsidiary companies in Pennsylvania. Application has been made to the interstate commerce commission for authority to acquire the properties of 10 subsidiaries in New Jersey. When the acquisition of these is completed, the company will have direct ownership of approximately 1,954 miles of the property operated by it, approximately 178 miles under lease and 119 miles operated under trackage rights.

The report points out that the company's participation in the increased demand for transportation brought about by the nation's defense and war efforts is reflected in the gross revenue of $106,845,421 for the year as compared with $86,606,613 for 1940.

Analysis of Figures

In analyzing the year's financial picture, the report points out that while gross revenue increased $20,238,808 last year over 1940, the net railway operating income showed an increase of $7,077,586, operating expenses having increased $10,487,063 and taxes $2,190,983.

The gross revenue last year was the largest in 11 years and represented an increase of 23.37 per cent over 1940. Freight revenue increased $10,554,944 or 26.05 per cent, passenger revenue increased $128,004 or 2.81 per cent. The road moved 44,260,519 tons of freight last year, the average distance moved being 227 miles. It carried 13,616,074 passengers an average journey of 23.77 miles.

In connection with improvements in equipment and facilities, the report mentions that "In addition, there was completed a program of rebuilding 11 class K-5-A passenger locomotives by replacing the old cylinders and frames with steel frame and cylinders cast in one solid piece. These locomotives were also equipped with large tenders and trailer truck boosters taken from other locomotives and four were equipped with roller bearings. By such conversion, these locomotives are now being operated on through passenger line trains between Jersey City, N. J., and Marion, O., a distance of 728 miles instead of between Jersey City, N. J., and Hornell, N. Y., a distance of 331 miles, and between Hornell, N. Y., and Marion, O., a distance of 397 miles, as formerly operated, and has made other locomotives available for service."

New Cars Ordered

An order was placed in March, 1941, for 1,605 new freight cars.

Wage increases granted beginning last September are estimated to cost approximately $6,000,000 annually.

Industrial Note

From Nation's Business

Thomas G. Corcoran, former RFC employe and White House entertainer, tells the Truman committee that he is the victim of the tradition that, if a man builds a better mouse trap than his neighbors, the world will make a beaten path to his door. Mr. Corcoran says he accepts no lobbying fee less than $5,000, has no name on his office door, turns down more clients than he accepts, and admits he received $100,000 in cash fees and an undetermined amount of stock in defense industry in the course of 1941. Months ago, Mr. Jesse Jones, with characteristic frankness, said he could recall no service Mr. Corcoran performed for the RFC, nor did he attempt to explain why Mr. Corcoran was on the pay roll at $10,000 a year. It is made clear at last what Mr. Corcoran was doing besides entertaining with mandolin and Irish folk songs.

He was building mouse traps in government departments.

Ohio Cities Act To Meet Growing Difficulty in Transporting Workers

This story, second of two, tells what is being done to meet the need for additional bus and street car service to carry factory and office workers to and from work in the face of automobile and tire rationing.

• • •

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 3—Ohio's industrial cities and the state itself are fighting a battle behind the lines to keep buses, street cars and trains moving war factory workers to their jobs and home again so that production does not lag.

It's a fight each day in which thousands of shop hands climb into public vehicles, many leaving their own automobiles at home because of tire and auto rationing and lack of parking space.

An Associated Press survey of large cities showed today, however, that organization and cooperation are winning the transportation battle, although the campaign has not yet reached the crucial stage in some cities where factories still are abuilding.

Issue Many Licenses

The Ohio public utilities commission is granting literally hundreds of temporary bus route licenses, restricting their life to duration of the emergency and preventing them from competing seriously with established lines which will continue in service after the war.

The office of defense transportation in Washington recently asked George McConnaughey, PUCO chairman, to inform such agencies in all states of the Ohio plan to press school buses into service on temporary defense worker hauling routes.

McConnaughey said many extra buses were in use on regular routes, more night trips and that transportation companies' cooperation had been splendid.

How Cities Solve Problems

Several cities are experimenting with staggered work hours to spread out the transportation crush and permit bus and trolley lines to handle the crowds more quickly.

Here's what some cities have done:

CLEVELAND—All night service on four bus lines; possible compulsory staggering of work hours seen by Mayor Frank J. Lausche.

COLUMBUS—15 to 20 buses on order by Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. and like number of trolley coaches for fall delivery; lines carrying heavy load but generally meeting needs; "retired" cars in regular use.

CINCINNATI—80 motor coaches and trolleys on order by Cincinnati Street Railway Co., which official says is meeting situation in "pretty fair shape."

AKRON—Akron Transportation Co. ordered 92 new trolley buses late in 1940 and has just received most of them; bus schedules changed frequently to meet changing needs in vicinity of war factories.

TOLEDO—New buses ordered and some delivered; city considers making some downtown streets one-way to speed traffic.

YOUNGSTOWN—Work schedules staggered and new buses expected, new buses and runs added to Youngstown-to-Ravenna ordnance plant line.

DAYTON—Additional bus service furnished to Wright and Patterson army air fields; transportation companies ask to increase fare from five to seven cents and city commission demands promise of better service before considering increase.

Oil from the livers of the cusk, a fish common to the coast of the Brazilian state of Rio Paiuhy, is being used as a substitute for cod liver oil in fattening foods for animals, in soap and candle manufacture and in tanning.

Third New Nursing Class To Be Formed

Judge Matthias Sets Record

Has Longest Continuous Service on Ohio Supreme Court.

By H. H. DAUGHERTY
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, O., April 3—A toast to Judge Edward S. Matthias for the longest continuous service on Ohio's supreme court bench.

Judge Matthias still has almost three years to serve on his present term, to Jan. 1, 1945. And now, at 69, his prospects for completing his term are excellent. His birthday is April 6.

Last Jan. 15 Judge Matthias completed 27 years and 15 days of continuous service as a judge of the supreme court to equal the record of Judge William E. Spear of Trumbull county, who retired Jan. 1, 1913.

Only one Ohio supreme court jurist, Judge Peter Hitchcock of Geauga county, served longer than Judge Matthias. His service started in 1819 and totaled over 28 years, but it was not continuous.

Should Judge Matthias continue on the bench until Jan. 10, 1943, he also will have topped Judge Hitchcock's record.

37 Years a Judge

Judge Matthias has worn judicial robes continuously for more than 37 years. Prior to ascending the supreme court bench Jan. 1, 1915, he was a common pleas court judge for 10 years in the old Third judicial district, which included his home county of Van Wert.

JUDGE E. S. MATTHIAS

In Judge Matthias the supreme court newspaper reporters feel they have a real friend. He has made many a good story.

Often the prospects for an interesting story were nil as somber attorneys propounded abstract legal theories. Then Judge Matthias would come to the rescue.

Leaning forward, elbows on the bar and a twinkle in his eye, he would break in with a sarcastic or humorous question that often would confound the lawyer and elicit from him an answer that provided the reporter with just the "peg" for a story. His repartee likewise was the keystone of many a good story.

I am convinced that Judge Matthias had no hand whatsoever in the court's very unconstitutional ruling which barred me from the hearing room without a coat on hot, sultry, summer days. I feel down deep in my heart he was a dissenter. Therefore, I have a tender feeling for him.

During his 27 years on the bench Judge Matthias has participated in some of the most important decisions in Ohio history. In many he wrote the deciding opinions.

Never a "Yes" Man

But he has not been a "yes" man, going along with the other jurists just for the sake of unity. His name is attached to noted dissenting opinions, sometimes alone.

Although a staunch Republican, his vote on many political decisions would not betray his politics. Often he voted to give a Democrat an office over a Republican contestant, or against a principle advocated by his party in favor of that advocated by the opposition.

Judge Matthias used to be quite a fisherman and a golf enthusiast. Several years ago when Judge Benson W. Hough, James E. Robinson and Thomas A. Jones were his colleagues, they comprised a foursome which fought many a grueling golf battle. Those associates have passed on.

Perhaps his chief hobby, however, is the Spanish-American War Veterans association. He was captain of a volunteer company of infantry from Van Wert county in the war with Spain. From its organization, he was an active member of the Spanish War veterans' organization and served as its state and national commander.

Son Is a Judge

One of the happiest times of his life, he will tell you, was when he saw his son, John M. Matthias, don the judicial robes to become a judge of the Columbus municipal court.

He has another son, Edward, who was invalided during the first World war. He has three daughters.

His initial "S" stands for Shiloh, a name given him by his father who lost an arm in that Civil war battle.

Judge Matthias is spending the Easter vacation in Florida. He will resume his place on the bench next Monday.

High School Cage Teams Are Guests at Kiwanis Luncheon

Hear Toledo University Coach Emphasize Value of Sports in Both Peacetime and Wartime.

Harold Anderson, basketball coach at Toledo university, was the main speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in Hotel Harding, Thursday. Guests included members of the Harding and St Mary Parochial High schools basketball teams.

Mr. Anderson said he believes competitive sports should be increased rather than decreased during the present crisis. He pointed out that benefits derived from participation in a sport such as basketball were varied.

First, he said the sport provide a variety of situations which have to be solved quickly. Sports also better the health of participants, he commented.

"I have never thought," he said, "that boys observing training rules to make a team have been sacrificing anything. They are only doing the thing they ought to be doing."

Aid To Leadership

Also, he explained that taking part in a sport develops leadership. But, according to him, the greatest value to be obtained from participation in a sport is the heightening of one's sense of citizenship, which he defined as the ability to get along with people.

Under citizenship he listed loyalty, which, he said, is learned by discovering that team interests must be placed ahead of individual interests. He pointed out, further, that one learns to control both pride in victory and bitterness in defeat by taking part in some sport.

He said he wished only that he could say that the courtesy of spectators was equal to that of team members.

Another feature under loyalty he listed as cooperation, without which no team can hope for success. One who participates in sports, he said, learns to help others while simultaneously doing his own job.

Teams Congratulated

After complimenting members of the basketball teams present on their victorious seasons this year despite the handicap of having no home court, he addressed further remarks to the high school youths.

He pointed out that some of those graduating this spring would probably desire to enlist in one of the armed services. He understands these are romantic sentiments, life in the armed services is not always romantic.

If possible, he said, all those graduating should go to college. He reminded them that national leaders have already voiced the need for men with college training as leaders.

He concluded that life is just a game on a big scale. He said that those who participate in sports previous to entering adult life have better chance to succeed, if they apply themselves, than those who take no part in sports.

Coached Famous Star

James C. Woods, program chairman for April, introduced Mr. Anderson as the man who coached Bob Gerber, ace center of the Toledo University team. Gerber, a senior, scored more points than any other basketball player in the country. His total was 532. He was unable to participate in two contests.

Dewey N. Bohyer, head basketball coach at Harding High school, introduced Charles Roberts, captain of the Harding High basketball team, who presented individual team members.

Rev. Father William J. Spickelmier introduced Bob McGinnis, captain of the St. Mary team, who presented members of the St Mary squad.

Dr. A. J. Wagner announced that the Kiwanis egg-hunting contest will be held Saturday morning. He requested that members be present at 7 a. m. in order to hide eggs. The hunt will begin at 9:30 and prizes will be awarded after 9:35. Each member of the club has furnished two dozen eggs for the contest.

Concert Announced

Mr Woods announced that the Eureka Jubilee Singers of Columbus will present a concert at the next meeting. The singers will also appear at 8 p. m. Thursday in Central Junior High school auditorium. No admission will be charged.

An announcement was made that 15 members attended Easter services at Salvation Army headquarters on West Center street Wednesday night in a body.

It was announced that the board of directors will meet at 11 Tuesday morning at Hotel Marion.

Guests were Robert Kelly, Donald Williamson and C. C. Roberts of Marion, and Paul Cride and Clark Davidson of Columbus.

Yanks Logical Winners of American League

Defensive Ability as Well as Offensive Punch Makes Champs Favorites.

By DILLON GRAHAM
Wide World Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The Yankees are favored to win the American league pennant again, not so much because they can punch but because they can block the other fellow's punches.

Their airtight defense is their strength, more than hitting or pitching superiority. Other contenders have better club batting and chucking averages.

Fans have come to attribute the success of the Bronx Bombers to overwhelming power and it's time that credit should go to the marvelous defense that, last year particularly, was the more deciding factor.

Comparatively few ground balls scooted through that clever inner circle that Joe McCarthy built. Seldom a day passed that Joe Gordon, peer of all second sackers didn't come up with a stop or two on balls that others would have just waved at. And over on the left side little Phil Rizzuto ranged far and wide.

The outfield, too, featured speed and defensive skill, with the fleet and strong-throwing Joe DiMaggio in a class by himself in center. An old baseball adage says a pennant-winner must have strength along the line from plate to centerfield and the Yanks had it. Bill Dickey, slowing up but still the league's top receiver; Gordon and Rizzuto, and DiMaggio.

The Yankees didn't entirely blast their way to a flag. And McCarthy certainly didn't overpower the loop with a great trio of pitchers. He had enough punch and pitching which, backed up by flawless fielding, enabled the Yanks to top the flag on September 4 the earliest clinching date in history. In winning, the Yankees shattered another axiom, that the victor must possess at least one 20-game pitching winner.

It looks as though McCarthy's current club will be a carbon copy of last year's. Such old-timers as Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing, along with Marius Russo, Atley Donald and Spurgeon Chandler, and a couple of rookie twirlers. No one is willing to gamble that there's a 20-game winner in the lot. But most of them will win consistently.

Bang, Bang Bang!

Defense will be stressed again with the younger, more spry Jerry Priddy replacing Red Rolfe at third and Buddy Hassett taking over the first base post left vacant when Johnny Sturm went into the army. The outfield will be the same—DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and Charley Keller—with George Selkirk and Tuck Stainback around to sub for Henrich if he's drafted. Young Ken Sears, a husky hitter, joins Dickey and Buddy Rosar as a backstop.

While cheering for the defense let's don't knock down that Yankee hitting. They've got it, perhaps not quite as much all down the line as, say, the Red Sox, but no club can furnish a more dangerous trio than DiMaggio, Keller and Henrich. Gordon and Dickey are just a step behind. DiMaggio topped the league in runs batted in—the most important evaluation of a hitter's value—and was second to Ted Williams of Boston in homers. They're still the Bomoers.

McCarthy lost a pair of young pitchers, Peek and Stanceau, and he'll take on a couple of rookies to replace them. He has a half dozen good looking right hand recruits but right now the Newark graduates, Hank Borowy and Johnny Lindell, who won 23, seem the likely choices.

If the Yanks don't win by a country mile this year the ole jedge, K. M. Landis, should start an investigation. That's how good they are.

Ohio Sports Chatter

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 3—High school happenings — or what's what on the scholastic scene.

Up at Ravenna, last Friday night, Ohio's High School Athletic board adopted a ruling which read "Hereafter, when any ineligible boy is permitted to participate, all season games in which he plays are to be forfeited regardless of circumstances."

And that one word—"hereafter"—probably will cause a flock of possible headaches around Massillon. Last fall, due to several protests, Commissioner Townsend checked for two full weeks to ascertain the age of Fred (Pokey) Blunt, captain and backfield ace of the Terrific Tigers. The commissioner came up with the information that "Pokey" was not over age, as the critics declared, but that he had been born Sept. 18, 1922, making him only 19 during the grid campaign.

However, Blunt applied for a marriage license not so long ago—and the Stark county records show he listed his age as 21—which would have put him past the 20-year mark, and ineligible, last fall.

Mr. Townsend rushed to Blunt's defense, however, with: "He probably thought he'd have trouble getting a license if he was under 21, so maybe he hunched his age a year or so. He's only 19."

Anyway, due to the "hereafter" erasing all retroactive possibilities, Massillon will keep its record of nine wins and a tie, and its claim to a seventh straight state grid title.

Those Buccaneers of Xenia Central High school were pretty excited last Saturday after winning the state Class A cage crown at Kent—but they shouldn't have gone home without taking the title trophy along. If it had not been for the loss of a diamond by a Xenia woman, the huge "Johnny Miner" award wouldn't have been on hand for the big homecoming scene when the victors returned to Greene county.

The tale going the rounds is that Mrs. Fleming Watt, Xenia fan, was driving home from Kent after the game when she noticed the diamond was missing from her ring. She returned to the Kent gym to seek it. The gem had been found and was returned to her, and as she started home the second time she noticed the big trophy was still there, although the Buccaneers had departed.

She claimed the cup, and backed up her claim with such vim and vigor that it was turned over to her. She raced for Xenia with it, and the big trophy was very much on display when the team was greeted early Sunday.

Schuler Brothers Named to Dayton All-Star Team

The Schuler brothers were named to the second team of the Wednesday league all-stars by the captains of the nine teams composing the league. Both are chemical engineering students, Ted is a freshman while Jack is a senior.

ARMY FAVORED TO WIN

OHIO STATE TANKER SETS WORLD RECORD

Buck Freshman Shatters Old 1,500-Meter Mark.

By The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3—The big question today, as the National A. A. U. swimming championships splashed toward a climax, was whether short, Slim Kiyoshi Nakama of Hawaii could do it again.

The dark-haired Ohio State freshman stole the spotlight yesterday, when the three-day classic began, by paddling a spectacular 1500-meters in 19:35.1, leaving a trio of broken standards.

Nakama, a human fish, makes his next bid for fame this afternoon in the 220-yard free style test, a highlight of the five event program, and experts predict that if he does win it, it'll be in a foam of records.

Facing the Hawaiian in this feature spring will be Otto Jaretz, the great champion from the Pasadena A. C.; John Patten, Michigan's National Collegiate winner and Captain Howie Johnson of Yale's mighty squad, prohibitive favorite to capture the team title for the first time.

Powerful Yale garnered four points and the Dallas A. C., two yesterday, but the blue should pull far away from the field of some 33 leading colleges and clubs by sunset.

Farmer Jones Floors Steve Nenoff in Armory Featu

Flash Clifford and Joe Ferona Score Impress Wrestling Victories.

Many a Marion mat fan who failed to attend last night's Armory mat program missed what was easily one of the best cards of the current season.

Promoter Lee Fleshbough overdid himself in trying to supply the Marion following with top-notch scraps because every one of the six fighters in last night's ring showed up to perfection. Only a couple of the men resorted to shady tactics and usually the offending scrapper came out on the losing end.

Farmer Jones, the Montgomery, Ark., grappler was at his best last night in winning over the veteran Steve Nenoff in two consecutive falls after succumbing to Nenoff in the first fall. Nenoff, watching his chance, forced the southern hog-breeder into a single crab hold in 14 minutes.

Enraged because of the loss after showing super form in the first ten minutes of the fight the Farmer came back after a ten-minute recess to down Nenoff in seven minutes with a delayed airplane twirl followed by a head stand.

Tired and a decidedly weakened by the "three-wagon" pace Nenoff a ring veteran since 1927, lost out to the Farmer on what Nenoff, himself, termed a "fluke" fall. Suffering worst in the rugged fray Nenoff barged head-on towards the Farmer who was leaning against the ropes regaining his breath. The Farmer cocked his leg and let go a crushing jab to Nenoff's neck. The blow momentarily dazed Steve and the Farmer followed up with body slam and body press to win the fall and match in five minutes of the third fall.

Flash Clifford, Louisville mat star, who at one time was a "cat" man with the famed Clyde Beatty, proved his mettle in winning a single fall and ultimately victory over the rugged Irish McGee, Cedar Rapids, Ia., ace, in the opening semi-final event. Flash worked McGee into a step-over hold to win the first fall in 23 minutes. Neither fighter was able to win a fall in the 13 minutes remaining of the match after the rest.

After losing the first fall in 16 minutes succumbing to a deadly crab, curly-haired Joe Ferona, the Boston Italian, came back to floor Jackie Steele of Centralia, Ia., and went on to win the decision by virtue of qualification of Steele for scoring. Members of the Marion following were about to storm the ring and give the referee Nick Bivins awarded the fall and fight to Ferona.

Four Tied for First in Asheville Open

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 3 — Asheville Open demonstrated today the incredible fact that a golf tournament can be a pleasant event.

Four men are tied for the lead at 69, four more counted 70, and six at even par 71.

As play moved into the second 18-hole round, the leaders were Byron Nelson of Toledo, former Open and PGA king; Lawson Little, Jimmy Hines and Herman Barron. The 70 slot included Tony Penna of Dayton, O.

Ned Day To Roll On Jinx Alleys

COLUMBUS, O., April 3—Ned Day—idol of the run-of-garden keglers—today drew jinxed alleys for his 13th crack at the American Bowling Congress prizes.

Many bowlers sleep only in seventh-floor hotel rooms and hope for assignment to "hot" alleys where big scores have been made.

But Day, national match game champion since 1938, scoffs at such superstitions and performs best on drives where scores were low—until he takes over.

Not one of the leaders in the four tournament events came from alleys 9 and 10, where the West Allis, Wis., bowler makes his first bid for 1942 ABC honors. Nine has a particularly bad record.

It was there that Joe Bodis of Cleveland, who held a record 10-year average of 205, was rolling when he injured his back and hit a slump that ruined his chances for the all-events leadership.

Bodis, after racking up a sparkling 717 the night before, started his singles with 127, followed with 142, then walked off the alleys without finishing.

Day hit the big time 12 years ago and has stayed at the top with a lifetime ABC average of 202. Others have topped that mark, but Day's pace got dizzier as he turned in a 204 average for the past 10 years, then upped it to 209 for the last five.

Day took the national match game title four years ago after Hank Marion of Santa Monica, Calif., retired as champion, and since then the biggest tournament crowds have watched him unlimber his Sunday hook.

Day sees action tomorrow night with the Pabst Blue Ribbon team of Milwaukee and will fire for singles and doubles records Sunday.

Major League Teams End Florida Stay, Head North

Managers Tag Brownies as Team Likely To Give Yankees Trouble.

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA, Fla.—This is getaway week in the baseball training camps, and as the sun-tanned athletes hit the exhibition trail leading to opening day on April 14 there is talk of only one team that might possibly inject a little pepper into an otherwise unpromising Yankee - dominated American league race. That club is the St. Louis Browns.

Every manager who has met the Browns this spring says they are a good, fast outfit that "might cause a lot of trouble." A couple of pilots, whose opinion the writer respects highly, say that Luke Sewell's outfit is a cinch to climb into the first division. It was one of the three teams in the American league to play better than .500 ball after Decoration day last season, the others being the Yankees and Washington.

Here is the order, then, in which the coming war-time campaign might wind up:

New York, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia.

The Yankees, winners last year by a lop-sided 17 games, are fundamentally so much better than any other team in the junior circuit that there is no real comparison. Sure, they haven't been looking like world champions this spring, so what? By midsummer they will have some rival club owners pining secretly for a split season.

The Chicago White Sox, who were third last year with exactly a .500 average, appear to have the pitching to boost them up to second place this time, say about 25 games off the pace. If they make it, then the loud and persistent group which insists that Jimmy Dykes is the greatest manager in the world—not barring even Joe McCarthy — will have to be listened to with new respect.

Boston, despite the loss of Joe Cronin's power at the plate and the fact that it is usually allergic to the draft, should have enough left to grab third. Ted Williams, one of the really great hitters of our time, probably could finish that high by himself.

Fourth does not appear too high a goal for the Browns considering the quality of the opposition. Sewell has a pair of good-looking southpaw rookie pitchers, Stan Ferrens and Frank Biscan, and another youngster named Vernon Stephens at short who might turn out to be the freshman of the year. The club, however, is very susceptible to the draft.

Cleveland has a popular new manager in 24-year-old Lou Boudreau, and the club is saturated with harmony, but that almost sums up the assets since the great Bob Feller climbed into navy blue. Barring a possible find or two among his rookies, Lou is painfully short on pitching and catching.

Detroit has lost weight steadily since it won a pennant only two seasons ago, and with the departure of 322-pound Buck Newsom the other day the Tigers' ribs began to show sure enough. Del Baker scarcely has enough pitchers left to get up an inter-club game. Bill Hitchcock, the team's new shortstop from Kansas City, appears to be a jewel.

Washington's hopes, if any, were shot when Cecil Travis and Buddy Lewis went into the service. That was all the hitting the club had, and even if Newsom is retained he can't help the situation much unless they convert him into an outfielder for his batting punch.

The selection of Philadelphia to finish eighth is purely by instinct. It is the position the A's have won in five of the last seven years.

"CHALLENGE"

By The Associated Press

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa. — William and Mary accepted the challenge of a football team which doesn't yet exist when it agreed to play the Chapel Hill, N. C., navy flyers here on Nov. 21. The team, to be coached by Jim (Fordham) Crowley, will represent a naval training base to be established at the University of North Carolina.

ANYTHING FOR A LAUGH

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O. — Fred W. Leist, McKinley High school teacher and official timekeeper for the Bulldog basketball games, has been firing blank cartridges for about 20 years to designate the end of periods in the contests. He recently pointed the revolver toward the ceiling, pulled the trigger—and down plopped a large crow at his feet. Of course, it was a stuffed one, but the joke gave the fans something to scream about.

SLOW DOWN, PLEASE

By The Associated Press

AVALON, Calif. — Stan Hack, Chicago Cubs' third sacker, who is right-handed and shoots golf left-handed, defeated Domenic Dallessandro, outfielder, who is left-handed and plays golf right-handed.

Delaware Co. Pilot Killed in Plane Crash

One of two navy fliers who crashed into the ocean off Santa Barbara Wednesday night while on a routine patrol flight was a member of one of Delaware county's most prominent families, a family that has given three sons and a daughter to the United States' armed services.

He was Ensign Weldon A. Baird, 26, who was piloting the plane when it crashed, The Associated Press reported following an announcement today by Capt. Richard H. Coffman, naval operations base commander at San Pedro, Calif.

Morgan M. Atwood of New Orleans, radio man third class, was the other victim.

Cause Not Learned

Navy planes and coast guard vessels searched the area without sighting any floating wreckage, Captain Coffman said. Cause of the accident was undetermined.

Ensign Baird's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baird of Kilbourne, east of Delaware, received the following telegram last night from John P. Rembert, junior squadron commander, Terminal Island Calif.:

"I deeply regret to inform you that your son, Ensign Weldon Baird, was instantly killed at 7:10 p. m. April 1 when his plane crashed into the sea two miles off the coast of Santa Barbara. The body was not recovered."

Ensign Baird's two brothers in service are William, who is at the Marine air corps training field at Corpus Christi, Tex., and Boydson, an air corps ground mechanic stationed in Stratford, Conn.

Sister Is Nurse

His sister, Miss Helen Louise Baird, enlisted in February as an army nurse and is at Camp Pine, N. Y.

The brothers and sister made outstanding scholastic records in the Delaware county schools and the three boys won countywide fame as athletes.

The brothers all are graduates of Maryville college at Maryville, Tenn., and all were named to the American College and University "Who's Who" One year the three played on the college basketball team.

Recently the Delaware newspaper conducted a countywide poll to select the county's all-time all-Delaware county basketball team. William Baird made the first team and Weldon and Boydson were voted guards on the second team.

Ensign Weldon Baird was graduated from the Brown township high school in Delaware county in 1933 and that year he was named to the all-county basketball team.

Almost immediately after his graduation from college he enlisted in the U. S. navy air corps and was sent to the training station at Pensacola, Fla. Upon completion of his training he was made an instructor and was assigned to the Jacksonville, Fla., training school where he served one year.

He had been on west coast assignment since late last December.

Youngsters get bored, too

Boredom isn't a state confined to adults. Youngsters often find games and toys monotonous, too. That's usually when they start complaining, "Oh, I have nothing to do", this, in spite of the fact that their rooms may be jam-packed with all sorts of toys.

If your children have been moping around the house quite a bit lately—if they've been irritable for the want of something to do (which, incidentally, usually leads to squabbles), why not try this plan? It's no magic formula—but it may be the solution to your boy's or girl's problem.

Ask them if they wouldn't like to start in on some sort of hobby. If you have a daughter, why not suggest that she do some collecting. She may hit on miniature china pitchers or the gathering of all sorts of dolls may take her fancy. Regardless of what she decides on, help her to see the advantage of selecting a hobby that can be carried through for a number of years.

Boys seem to get the greatest delight out of hobbies that require tools. They like to roll up their sleeves and get to work on something definite.

With your children, go through the announcements in this paper of hardware stores, book shops, gift shops, etc. They're bound to come across some hobby they'll not only like but stick to for years.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D

Chronic Arthritis

THE PERSON with chronic arthritis is liable to get it into his head that somewhere, some place, somebody has a single, certain cure for every case. The most important fact for his peace of mind and happiness is for him to know that no single method of treatment, but a combination of different things, with the added effect of time, is the way for him to regain his health.

This attitude about a single thing that will effect a cure may take the form of believing that a certain drug will do it. Of late years, however, with all the emphasis on the value of diet in treatment, the arthritic is inclined to believe that there is a certain kind of diet that he should eat, that certain foods will do him good and certain foods will do him harm. This, I believe, is not necessarily true, but I would like to discuss it.

Let it be remembered that the principle of treatment for arthritis is a combination of rest, alternated by periods of manipulation or exercise.

The rest should be of three kinds: first, physical rest in bed; second, mental and emotional rest and, third, rest from pain. "Bed rest," says one authority, "at one stroke reaches, to some extent at least, the strain and imbalance of the nervous system, the faulty position of certain organs and the improper closure of certain beds of blood vessels."

Mental depression can be relieved by assurance that everyone who has ever had chronic arthritis eventually got more or less a measure of relief. Rest from pain should be the principle of the medical treatment of arthritis.

Now as to diet, some people with arthritis are overweight, but most of them are underweight, object of most diets in arthritis is not a specific one, but simply to overcome the bad nutrition of the arthritic. The old idea that meat and proteins should not be used has long since been abandoned.

Many students of the disease believe that digestive complaints such as flatulence, constipation and nausea indicate that the nutrition is disturbed at the base and diets which tend to ameliorate these digestive conditions are prescribed.

On the basis of the nutrition of the arthritic a number of studies have been made concerning the vitamin balance of these individuals. A group of physicians in New England thought they detected a definite vitamin A deficiency. They reported that 65 per cent of chronic arthritis showed abnormal dark adaptation curves which might be interpreted as indicating some vitamin A deficiency.

The popular deficiency in the treatment of arthritis today is vitamin B deficiency. Dr. R. O. Muether, of St. Louis, Missouri, found that vitamin B was somehow rejected by the arthritic and was deficient in the diet. While it has not been proved that vitamin B is as much of a specific as is popularly believed, results with a vitamin B reenforced diet have been quite successful in obtaining some measure of relief for these patients.

To sum up the question of a diet for the arthritic we should consider, first, nutrition and, second, digestive disturbances. If there is an overweight condition, a reducing diet is indicated, and if there is an underweight condition, a reenforced diet is indicated. But remember, diet is only a small part of the treatment of chronic arthritis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. L. T.:—What causes the ankles to swell during the day? Would rubber stockings help the condition? What is the cause of a very dry tongue occasionally on awakening?

Answer: The commonest cause of ankles which swell during the day is varicose veins. In case the swollen ankles are due to varicose veins, rubber stockings are beneficial. A dry tongue is possibly an indication of anemia.

Pitfalls of Love

Madge Discovers Man Who Let Her In Is An Imposter, Masquerading as Diswell.

"OH!" I GASPED. "What was that?"

My hand was at my throat in an involuntary gesture of panic at the terrible, pain-filled, choking sound in the closed room behind me.

I tried to pull myself together, but the suddenly contorted face and ravage eyes of old Professor Diswell made me clutch at my throat, in order to choke back the frightened shriek which otherwise would have torn from it.

I fully expected to feel his hands at my throat in the next instant, for if ever I saw blind, murderous rage in a man's face—and I have witnessed it on several occasions—I saw it then in the eyes and features of the old professor who had been Jack Bickett's best friend.

The deterioration of his mind must have gone even further than was evidenced by his loss of memory and the other odd changes I had noticed in him. Occasional mad rages must be his, I decided, and took one hand away from my throat and put it against my lips, prepared to blow the whistle.

But the next instant I dropped both hands to my lap again and drew a deep breath of relief—and chagrin—at my own weakness. For so quickly did the savage look fade from his eyes, with an equally rapid smoothing out of his facial muscles, that I wondered bewilderedly, as I met his kindly indulgent smile, if my terrifying vision of him had been solely a figment of my imagination.

"Don't be frightened," he said. "It is only my old dog. He is terribly spoiled and when he is shut in for punishment, as he has been for the last hour, he makes the most unearthly noises. I don't wonder you were upset."

He paused and looked at me with a genial smile, which I suddenly found more terrifying than his anger.

That terrifying, choking noise never had been made by a dog. It was the frantic effort of speech of —I groped for knowledge and suddenly got it—of a man with a gag in his mouth!

What was going on in this secluded country house? Whatever it was, I knew better than to betray any curiosity concerning it."

"I truly am ashamed of myself," I told him, "especially because we once had a dog who used to do the same thing."

But I had succeeded in quieting any suspicion he might have had of my reaction to the unearthly noise. Even as I spoke, however, the eerie, choking sound came again, and he strode toward the door behind me.

"If you'll excuse me," he said, "I'll go in there and settle that hound. He's transcending all bounds."

Madge in a Panic

"Please don't punish him on my account," I pleaded.

"I won't be hard on him," he promised. Then he went into the other room, leaving me stunned and breathless, with a real panic this time instead of an imaginary one.

For as he passed me the sunlight came through the window and shone full upon his face. And my knowledge of make-up, gleaned from Harry Underwood, master of the craft, had flashed the terrifying truth upon me.

The man who had been talking to me was not Professor Walter Scott Diswell, but some one cleverly masquerading in the old man's place!
